Conference Report Is Accepted by House Without Single Dissenting Vote Being Cast.

Bill Divides State Into Three Divisions With Valdosta in New Central Unit.

Washington, May 18.—(Special.) The Georgia judgeship bill, creating an additional judicial district in the state completed its last legislative step Tuesday with acceptance by the house, without a dissenting voice of the conference report. The senate approved the report Monday, which recommended the George bill passed by the senate instead of the Larsen measure passed originally by the house.

The measure in its final form was being enrolled and engrossed Tuesday and will be sent to the white house as soon as these technicalities are completed. Its signature by the president is expected before the end of the week. The approval of President Coolidge is assured, as the principle of the measure was indicated by the department of justice before legislation was initiated in congress.

The conference report was called up in the house Tuesday by Representative Crisp, read and accepted, without a single objection. Members of the Georgia delegation who have stood for the house measure, which places Valdosta in the southern district, presented no opposition, agreeing for the sake of harmony and the success of the legislation to stand by the form of the measure as fixed by the conference. The George bill places the Valdosta division in the new middle district.

Optimism Prevails.

Optimism was prevalent among members of the delegation Tuesday that the bill had been enacted and Georgia thus assured of an additional district and another federal judge to relieve present congestion in the state courts.

Attention now turns to appointment.

$25,000,000 GIFT MADE BY KRESGE

Chain Store Owner Establishes Great Fund for Philanthropic and Educational Purposes.

New York, May 18.—(P)—Establishment of a $25,000,000 fund for philanthropic and educational purposes by Sebastian S. Kresge, chain store owner, was announced today on behalf of the Kresge foundation, which will administer the endowment.

A gift of 500,000 common shares of the S. S. Kresge company, valued at current market prices in excess of $22,000,000, has been made by Mr. Kresge to the foundation.

Under trust provisions, the shares will be held intact, but will be utilized as collateral for occasional bond issues. The first of these will be for $10,000,000, the proceeds to be devoted mainly to the purchase of real estate. Through his banking representatives, Mr. Kresge indicated that he would make additional gifts to maintain a perpetual fund for charity. The Kresge foundation was formed two years ago with a fund of $2,000,000 set aside by Mr. Kresge.

Former Cabinet Member Calls for Setting of Prices on Products From Farm.

COTTON CONTROL BODY IS URGED

Institute Would Control Trade Problems, According to Plan Submitted by George S. Harris.

Stabilization of agriculture by means of setting of prices for farm products before the farmer puts his seed in the ground, urged by Edwin T. Meredith, former United States secretary of agriculture, speaking at the banquet at the Biltmore last night in the 30th annual convention of the American Cotton Manufacturers' association, and a move to create a cotton textile institute, to virtually control every phase of the cotton textile industry except price fixing, were the outstanding features of the first day of the convention.

Three sessions, morning and afternoon sessions as well as that of the evening banquet, brought forth many valuable suggestions for the general benefit of cotton textiles industry from an array of speakers surpassing anything ever before attempted at such a convention.

Final Business Today.

Today at 10 o'clock the convention will gather in the final business session to hear reports and several important speeches and to elect new officers and adopt resolutions. With a buffet luncheon served at the close of the business meeting, the convention will come to a close.

Mr. Meredith, of Des Moines, editor of Successful Farming, last night delivered a powerful argument on behalf of fair treatment for the American farmer and his suggestions were received with acclaim by the audience of 400 outstanding men in the textile manufacturing industry of this country.

Dr. Howard Bonthealer, president of Salem college, of Winston-Salem, N. C., was the second speaker on the evening program, delivering an entertaining address in which he told in brief the marvelous record of achievement by the cotton gill men in the south in the short period since the war between the states.

Importance of Agriculture.

Mr. Meredith showed how in 1920 there was one business enterprise for each 275 acres of cultivated farm land, compared to one business enterprise to each 425 acres in 1870. He showed the fundamental importance of agriculture to the business structure by showing that whenever the average value producing power per acre increased the number of business failures decreased, and vice versa, through all the years.

After thus demonstrating the vital importance of agriculture to business, the former cabinet member declared that the farmer is the only business man who has absolutely no voice in setting the price for his product.

Though the cost of producing a bushel of wheat or a bale of cotton is practically the same from year to year the price may vary 100 per cent within a year or two. He said that the farmer has nothing to say regarding price, but must put in his crop, work it, harvest it, and bring it to market to receive, perhaps, only half the price he reasonably expected when he began his year's work.

To remedy this, Mr. Meredith would have the government create a commission which would, each fall, specify the minimum price to be paid for the principal farm products at the end of the following crop season. This price would be set according to the amount of production of the particular commodity.

U. S. AND GERMANY ANXIOUS TO AVOID FUTURE WARFARE

Hugh Gibson and Count Von Bernstorff Make Pledge To Seek Disarmament at League Meeting.

GIBSON OUTLINES AMERICAN VIEWS

U. S. Favors Extension of Washington Conference Terms To Provide for Further Disarmament.

Geneva, May 18.—Extension of the terms of the Washington conference to provide further naval disarmament and regional agreements to bring military disarmament are favored by the United States government, Hugh Gibson, the American representative, told the League of Nations preliminary disarmament commission Tuesday.

Meeting for the first time in a league of disarmament conference gathering on an equal footing, Gibson and Count Von Bernstorff, German wartime ambassador to the United States stood out prominently among the speakers at the opening session of the commission.

Both pledged that their nations sought disarmament which looked to avoidance of future armed conflicts. Gibson, with concrete suggestions, carefully outlined the American attitude toward any league disarmament meeting which might come as a result of the present session.

Predictions of Failure.

Predictions of ultimate failure of the proposed league disarmament meeting were somewhat strengthened by the immediate intervention of French, Belgian and Italian delegates of the claim that industrial potentialities of a country must be taken into consideration before any extensive disarmament could be accomplished.

The positions of the French and Italian delegates were in conflict with that of Lord Robert Cecil, British representative, at the outset. Paul Boncour for France, Bruckner for Belgium and Demarini for Italy, who followed Cecil, flatly opposed his thesis which would limit disarmament on the basis of peace-time effectiveness of the countries concerned.

Gibson's outline of the American viewpoint of the proposed conference came before the clash between Italian, French and Belgian delegates on the one hand and the English representative on the other. The American representative declared that the Washington government was convinced that reduction of land armaments would be best attained by regional agreements which would limit competitive naval construction. Agreements to limit armaments, he maintained, should constitute helpful guarantees of national security which would facilitate still further reductions.

Germany Disarmed.

"The German people and the German republic follow with greatest interest the efforts of the League of Nations to bring disarmament," said Count von Bernstorff, who followed Gibson. "We are convinced that armaments always lead to war. The world cannot support economically another great conflict.

"Arbitration has advanced so far as a result of the Locarno treaties that sufficient security is now assured to permit realization of our disarmament hopes. Germany is hopeful that the proposed conference will inaugurate a new era where armaments and competition in building armaments will be impossible."

Disagreement between the various representatives came immediately after discussion of the question, "What constitutes armaments?" has been opened.

Cecil opened the fight. He outlined the English viewpoint, which insists that an investigation of armaments for the purpose of fixing a basis of reduction should be limited to the forces immediately available in the event of war.

"The actual striking force of nations is the thing we consider," said the English representative. "Nations arm themselves only to meet what the aggressor might be able to do in the way of an initial blow."

There are numerous villages in the British Islands which are still living sleepily in the days of long ago, unmarked by outward show of modern progress, but comparatively few can boast of avoiding the march of the automobile.

Political Leaders in Paris Say Pact Will Be Impossible If Franc Continues To Fall.

LOAN IS REFUSED TO RAOUL PERET

President Coolidge Anxious for Congress To Act On Agreement Before Adjournment.

NEGRO MUMBLES PRAYERS AND SOBS

Governor Declines To Interfere With Court's Sentence Early on Day of Execution.

Paris, May 18.—French ratification of the recently made Franco-American debt agreement will become practically impossible unless the downward trend of the franc is checked, well informed political leaders asserted following Tuesday's crash of the franc to 35 for a dollar, a new low level.

Government leaders are admittedly alarmed following Premier Briand's long conference with financiers last Tuesday. While realization of the serious crisis that is facing France has not yet reached the average Frenchman and the press has not reflected the feeling held by government officials this is explained by the suddenness with which the franc has taken a turn for the worse.

Politicians declared Tuesday night that while ratification of the French debt funding agreement with the United States seemed certain at the time the agreement was signed in Washington, the present trend of financial events, if it continued, would make it quite impossible for the government to gain approval from the chamber of the Berenger-Mellon terms for settlement.

PERET DISCOURAGED AS LOAN IS REFUSED.

London, May 18.—Influential American and English financiers, interviewed here by Raoul Peret, French minister of finance, are sending him home Wednesday filled with discouragement, according to reliable reports.

These reports say Peret came to London to discuss a loan from London or Wall street to bolster the French franc and not the Franco-British debt. Many well-informed people in London maintain that the debt discussions were merely a side-show. But Peret found little hope in the matter of a loan, it is claimed.

After interviewing both Americans and Englishmen Peret is said to have found they agreed that France must show a serious intention of helping her currency herself by reforming French finances before any application for a loan will be considered.

COOLIDGE EXPECTS CONGRESS TO ACT.

Washington, May 18.—(P)—President Coolidge apparently wants the French debt agreement ratified at this session of congress, even if the attempt delays adjournment into the summer.

He has refrained from any public pronouncement on the subject, but senate and house leaders with whom he has talked have turned their attention once more to the troublesome question of getting the debt agreement ratified and have told him they think it can be done.

Whereas the white house heretofore has let the impression go out that only congress itself knew what it would do about the debt agreement, today officials today that Mr. Coolidge now expects ratification at this session.

LADEN AMBULANCE IN FATAL CRASH

Speeding To Hospital With Badly Injured Workmen, Vehicle Collides With Trolley.

Marietta, Ga., May 19.—(Special.) When a speeding ambulance containing J. M. Lane, 30, of Rome, dying from injuries, and J. A. McKelvey, 27, of Lawrenceville, seriously hurt with his coworker by a falling steel pole, crashed into an interurban trolley on Main street, W. L. Westbrook, of Fairburn, a fellow workman, was painfully hurt and more than a score of passengers were thrown into confusion Tuesday afternoon.

Lane died later at Nolan's hospital here and McKelvey is unconscious from internal injuries, according to reports. Westbrook suffered a crushed foot in the collision, but was permitted to leave when his injury was given first aid treatment.

Lane and McKelvey were hurt, it is said, while for some unexplained reason, a heavy pole being hoisted in place on Concord road, two miles south of here, suddenly crashed to the ground.

Westbrook was accompanying the Negro Last To Be Hanged In Fulton County. Chair Now To Claim Murderers.

HOUSE EXPEDITES ACTION ON HAUGEN MARKETING BILL

Solons Refuse To Strike Out Clause Calling for Equalization Fee for Crops.

The final chapter in the annals of Fulton county's criminal gallows history was believed to have been written Tuesday afternoon when Mack Wooten, negro, convicted slayer of Dan H. Williams, wealthy Atlanta lumberman, was hanged in Fulton tower.

Governor Walker early Tuesday morning declined to interfere with the sentence of the court, and Attorney Swift Tyler and Joe Lewis, defense counsel, immediately were denied a writ of habeas corpus by Judge E. E. Pomeroy in Fulton superior court. The lawyers claimed that the sentence of death was vacated because Wooten was first sentenced to die in the electric chair in Milledgeville and afterwards the sentence was changed to death by hanging.

The rebuilt gallows claimed its last life at 3:18 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. Wooten being pronounced dead 30 minutes later by Dr. W. J. Auten, county physician, and Dr. D. D. McDonald, who assisted Dr. Auten. The execution took place in the presence of only a few persons, including newspapermen, physicians and county officials acting under the orders of Sheriff James I. Lowry.

Metters Prayers.

Wooten was ushered into the death chamber by Deputy Sheriff Charlie Griffin and slowly ascended the gallows mumbled prayers. The voice of Sheriff Lowry was the first to pierce the silence of the death chamber. Wooten was asked if he desired to say anything. The negro replied only with a short prayer, during which his voice faltered. He asked blessings for Sheriff Lowry, his executioner; his 74-year-old mother, whom he declared did not know of his predicament, and cried for forgiveness for the murder of Williams, which he admitted.

J. D. Hazenro, deputy sheriff, in charge of the tower, read the declaration, following a reading of scriptures and a prayer by the Rev. Harry Williams, of the Goodwill Industrial school.

The trap was sprung by a deputy and Wooten's body hurtled through the trap. Twenty minutes later he was removed from the gallows dead.

Legal Complications.

The Williams murder case has brought about numerous legal complications. Wooten was found guilty in Fulton superior court and was sentenced to pay the death penalty by electrocution. It was discovered that the negro had been indicted prior to passage of the electrocution act and, therefore, was subject to hanging.

In Shanghai, following a hearing, county officials were under the impression that Wooten was to be hanged Monday and had made preparations for his execution. Sheriff Lowry checked up on the records at the state capital and found that Wooten had been respited until Tuesday.

Defense Attorney Tyler Monday argued before Governor Walker for commutation of sentence on the grounds that the negro shot Williams in the belief that Williams intended to kill him. The Georgia prison commission declined to recommend clemency on this same plea.

Williams was shot when he went to the servants' quarters in the rear of his home to quell an alleged disturbance. As he entered the front door of the servants' house, he is said to have been shot down by Wooten.

WOMAN DEAD FOR 9 HOURS COMES TO LIFE

Aged Woman Sits Up in "Death Bed" and Asks Question.

New York, May 18.—(United News.)—Mrs. Celia Milstein surprised everybody and pleased a great many when she suddenly sat up in bed after having been pronounced dead for nine hours, and asked a roomful of relatives and friends what they were crying about.

She refused to believe that after sinking into a coma nine hours previously she had been pronounced dead or that funeral arrangements had been made. A cemetery plot had been purchased and the burial was scheduled for Sunday. Mrs. Milstein, 52 years old, has been suffering from heart disease.

Tuesday night she said her experience was the funniest thing she ever heard about.

DUTCH PROTEST MONROE DOCTRINE ON BULBS, PLANTS

The Hague, Holland, May 18.—(P)—The Dutch government intends to reopen negotiations with Washington on the subject of American duties on plants and bulbs. Minister of Agriculture Kan said today in the course of a discussion in the chamber.

Dutch bulbs are not diseased, the minister contended, but America, following the Monroe doctrine, is excluding them because they are now being cultivated in the United States. He added that there was no ground for calling an international conference on the matter as long as the United States continued.

Foreign Minister Van Karnebeek said that there were no differences with the United States on the matter suitable for submission to arbitration.

SINCLAIR LEWIS FLIVERING UNDER GUISE OF BOOK AGENT

PLANS NEW NOVEL ON AMERICAN PREACHER

BY HAROLD ANDREWS.

Kansas City, Mo., May 18.—Max Sinclair, as a book agent, Sinclair Lewis is flivering northward through the main streets of the breadbasket region in the hope of catching enough small-town pastors off their guard to give him material for another best seller.

His departure was a relief to Kansas City where he has been disturbing church circles in recent months by making unorthodox remarks while lecturing in orthodox pulpits. But there were a great many who were sorry to see the red-headed author leave and a great many more who showed a keen interest in his latest adventure.

Lewis' idea is to write a novel about American preachers. He believes he can learn to know them better by calling on them in the guise of an encyclopedia salesman. Hence the trip northward.

Among the many other interesting things Lewis did during his long visit in Kansas City was to conduct a "Sunday school" for preachers. Rev. Bert Fiske, of the Federated Church of Ottawa, Kan., told about the Sunday school soon after Lewis left town.

Rev. Fiske was so impressed by the force of Lewis' remarks that after attending two sessions of the "school," he went back to Ottawa and preached on "Christian Pagans." The sermon caused a furore. It was denounced openly by the deacons and Rev. Fiske consented to leave his pastorate.

Wondering how he should support his wife and children, last Sunday he strolled into Lewis' apartment, and told the author about his plight. Lewis insisted that he spend the night in the apartment.

"Here," Lewis shouted at him, "put on these pajamas and dream you are the author of 'Arrowsmith,' refusing a thousand bucks."

Rev. Fiske said he wouldn't be apt to refuse a thousand, or even a hundred. The author told him not to worry. "You've been brave and true to me and I'll look after my own," he said. "I'll give you a check for $300 tomorrow. It will tide you over until you get a job."

During breakfast Rev. Fiske underwent mental fidgeting for Lewis seemed to have forgotten all about the check. The pastor made every effort to swing the conversation around to it, but finally gave up. Lewis simply refused to remember the $300.

But Rev. Fiske wasn't so unfortunate after all. The deacons telegraphed him Tuesday that his congregation had voted to refuse to accept his resignation.

"There is one thing about old-time religion," remarked Rev. Fiske, "it took care of its own."

CONFEDERATE VETERANS TAKE CITY BY STORM AS ANNUAL 36TH CONVENTION FORMALLY OPENS

Birmingham, Ala., May 18.—(P)—Birmingham today capitulated to the southern Confederacy. The men who fought at Chickamauga, Gettysburg and Spottsylvania were in complete control. And the taking of the city was without forced march, midnight raid and the mad rush of battle.

It was the old south tonight meeting the new south.

In a blaze of color and in the midst of an assemblage marked by the brilliance and traditions of its lineage, that remnant of Lee's courageous band which journeyed for annual roll call was greeted with enthusiasm which knew no bounds.

A joint assembly of veterans, their ladies and sons at the municipal auditorium constituted the opening of the 36th annual convention of the Sons of Confederate Veterans, which will continue its sessions until Friday.

The veterans, here for their 36th annual meeting, will hold the first business session tomorrow.

Freeman Honor Guest.

Dr. W. G. Galloway, commander-in-chief of the Sons of Veterans, assumed the chair after the formalities of welcome and introduction. General W. B. Freeman, commander-in-chief of the veterans, was an honor guest. His appearance on the stage was the signal for an ovation which was followed by frequent demonstrations in honor of personages high in the ranks of the Confederacy.

Women in evening gowns, street dress, traveling frocks and all sorts of costume composed the bulk of the 6,000 persons who jammed every inch of space in the hall. Most of the veterans were in full gray uniform.

The first night and that most favored of southern melodies, "Dixie," brought a prolonged demonstration.

Mrs. A. M. C. Wilson, president, general of the Confederate States Memorial association, was the honoree at a luncheon at which General Freeman was honor guest this afternoon.

Stones Mountain Memorial.

The Confederate States Memorial association was electrified to hear Hollins N. Randolph, president of the Stone Mountain Memorial association, report that "every element of doubt and uncertainty has been eliminated and the ultimate completion of the whole splendid project is merely a matter of time and finance."

"Starting three years ago with $1.85 in the treasury, with no pledges or subscriptions, and with debts of nearly $25,000, the Stone Mountain Memorial association today has assets of more than $400,000 with no liabilities or debts of any kind," declared Mr. Randolph.

"This is enough, we are officially advised, to carve the first section of the central group on the mountain—that is, the equestrian figures of President Davis, General Lee and General Jackson. We are now in process of letting a contract to carve that section, and we are advised that this carving can be finished within two years. When this has been done, the carving of the balance of the central group and the subsequent groups that

BEER AND WINE CANDIDATE SEEMS WINNER OF RACE

Senator George Pepper and Governor Pinchot Run Well in Rural Sections of State.

BEIDLEMAN AHEAD OF JOHN S. FISHER

Wilson Is Unopposed for Democratic Nomination for Place in United States Senate.

Philadelphia, May 19.—(P)—With more than half the returns in from the primary, Congressman William S. Vare, candidate on a platform favoring modification of the prohibition laws, this morning led for the republican nomination for United States senator by a plurality of 78,855 over Senator Pepper, who was running second. Governor Pinchot was in third place.

The vote of 4,941 districts out of 8,281 in the state gave Vare 405,086, Pepper 326,831, Pinchot 200,925.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

(By Leased Wire to The Constitution and The Chicago Tribune.)

Philadelphia, Pa., May 18.—Pennsylvania declared for beer and light wine today, according to returns from one-third of the election districts in the state in the primary for nomination of a republican candidate for United States senator.

Representative William S. Vare, running on a platform declaring for modification of the Volstead act to permit the manufacture and sale of light wine and beer, was given more votes than both his dry rivals combined in the returns received up to midnight.

Figures in Race.

In 2,706 out of 8,281 election districts in the state the figures were:

Vare, 997,160.

Pepper, 350,703.

Pinchot, 95,629.

These figures include 855 out of 1,492 districts in Philadelphia, which gave:

Vare, 189,821.

Pepper, 157,160.

Pinchot, 12,687.

These figures would indicate that Vare carried Philadelphia by 200,000 and that Pepper carried the remainder of the state by 100,000. A plurality in all that is needed for a nomination.

See Vare Nomination.

With allowance for the radical reduction of the Vare lead by the later returns impartial election experts are of the opinion that the complete figures will show Vare to have received the nomination by a comfortable margin.

Pinchot ran strongly in the agricultural sections of the coal regions, but is clearly third man in the state. Despite the enormous lead of Vare in the returns from one-third of the state, the Pepper managers declined to concede defeat and asserted that

Coloratura Soprano
Breaks Ground Today
For Lake at Emory
BY SANDY CLOWER.
Emory University, Ga., May 18.—
(Special.)—Miss Suzanne Keener, coloratura soprano of the Metropolitan Opera company, who will accompany the Emory Glee club in their three Atlanta "pre-European" concerts, will make the welkin ring and the woodland hills resound today, not with trills of her bird-like voice, but with the blows from her ax when she chops the first tree in clearing of the ground for the 10-acre lake to be constructed at Emory on the western side of the campus. A holiday has been declared by Dr. Cox, and students were informed of their task at a mass meeting of the student body today in Antoinette gardens. Dr. Cox and Coach J. G. Lester, who is general of the clean-up campaign, outlined the reasons for the holiday.

LEADERSHIP FRAT HONORS TWELVE EMORY STUDENTS

Emory University, Ga., May 18.—(Special.)—Public tapping ceremonies of the Omicron Delta Kappa, national leadership fraternity, were held today before a mass meeting of the Emory student body in Antoinette gardens, with Dr. Harvey W. Cox, president of the university, officiating. Eleven outstanding students were tapped, in addition to Dean Goodrich Cook White, of the college of liberal arts. A brief and impressive speech explaining the ideals and purposes of the fraternity was made by Dr. Cox and after the address old members of the fraternity were ordered to bring forward the men who were voted the honor. Those who were tapped were Henry Trest, Columbus; Mack Anthony, Atlanta; Richard Powell, Tuskegee, Ala.; Jack Cleveland, Coral Gables, Fla.; Emil "Sandy" Clower, Morven; Robert Crawford, Dothan, Ala.; Charles W. Allen, Calhoun; James H. Therrell, Atlanta, and Joseph Calloway.

PENSION OF JETT AWAITS ACTION OF MAYOR SIMS

While the enabling act which would permit unquestioned retirement of E. I. Jett, acting chief of police, on a chief's pension, Tuesday night awaited approval of Mayor Walter A. Sims, preparations were being made by Chief Jett to file his application with the pension board the minute it is signed. Meanwhile Chief of Police James L. Beavers was preparing to assume his duties Monday. Council Monday passed a resolution authorizing Jett to be retired on a pension of $2,000 annually, which is half the chief's salary. Chief Beavers will assume his duties after the retirement of the Georgia court of appeals is received by Fulton county court officials.

E. Walter Tripp announced Tuesday his formal entry into the race for councilman from the first ward. He will seek nomination in the primary September 22. Mr. Tripp will oppose Alderman H. T. Loehr, who has announced that he will make the race to succeed Councilman R. F. Pennington. Mr. Pennington has announced his intention of running for the position of alderman to succeed Mr. Loehr. Mr. Tripp formerly was connected with the United States marshal's office here. He is now editor and publisher of The Atlantic and is prominently identified in fraternal circles of the city.

GOVERNOR GILCHRIST BURIED IN FLORIDA

Punta Gorda, Fla., May 18.—(AP)—Albert Walter Gilchrist, former governor of Florida, was laid to rest here this afternoon in Indian Springs cemetery on the banks of the Alapatchee river. Ceremonies were conducted by the local Masonic lodge, of which Mr. Gilchrist was past master, and the Masonic Grand Lodge of Florida. A detachment of state troops acted as a guard of honor and fired a salute over the grave. Dr. Robert W. Gibbs, Mr. Gilchrist's half brother, and a party of friends accompanied the body from New York, and other members of the immediate family were Hunter A. Gibbs, of Columbia, S. C., brother of Dr. Gibbs; Mrs. W. H. Montgomery, Spartanburg, S. C.; Mrs. Arch Cheatham, Durham, N. C.; Mrs. D. A. Childs, Columbia, S. C., and Walter S. Montgomery, Jr., Spartanburg.

Builders Oppose Creation of City Building Office

Unanimous passage of a resolution opposing the proposed plan of the city to create an "architectural and engineering bureau" to handle "various projects for which money was voted in recent bond issues," featured a meeting Tuesday of the board of directors of the Builders' exchange. Copies of the resolution were forwarded to city council, the city board of education and the city bond commission.

The text of the resolution follows: As citizens and taxpayers of our city, having years of experience in the construction business, we earnestly request that you do not take definite action toward the establishing of an architectural and engineering bureau by the city of Atlanta to handle the various projects for which money was voted in the recent bond issue. Among our local architects and engineers you will find men with the requisite qualifications to handle any of the contemplated improvements, both as to architectural and executive experience—men who are not only citizens and taxpayers, but who have given long years of hard work in order to equip themselves to handle work of this class; also men who are in demand by other cities to handle the same type of work. We believe that the city should employ a reputable and established architectural firm to handle your work and consider the money paid them well spent.

It is a certainty, borne out by the experience of large private builders and by municipalities generally over the country, that the erection of a building of your city is a haphazard or experimental manner, but would employ a reputable and established architectural firm to handle your work and consider the money paid them well spent.

SCHOOL ALLOTMENTS WILL BE DISCUSSED

Applications for allotments of the $2,500,000 bond money voted March 24 for schools will be considered at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon at a joint meeting of the Atlanta board of education and the contact committee of the bond commission, it was announced Tuesday by Dr. R. M. Eubanks, president of the board. The meeting will be held at headquarters at Walker Street school, and delegations wishing to have new schools constructed from bond funds in their respective districts will be heard. One of the principal matters to be considered is a proposal of Dr. Eubanks to have the city and county join in construction of a large and modern opportunity school building on the site of the old Girls' High school. Only $1,000,000 of the total amount allocated to schools will be available this year. This sum will be available July 1. Attention of the board, therefore, will be directed mainly to expenditure of this amount. The remaining $2,500,000 will become available in 1927 and 1928.

M'GRATH LEAVES FOR INDUSTRIAL MEET IN CAPITAL

Joseph P. McGrath, secretary of the Georgia Manufacturers' association, will leave today to attend the semi-annual meeting of the national industrial council which convenes in Washington, D. C., May 20-22. While in Washington, Mr. McGrath who also is chairman of the state committee on elimination of waste in industry, will confer with Ray M. Hunton, chief of the division of simplified practice, of the United States department of commerce, on arrangements for management week which has been set for October 25-30. He also will consult with Georgia representatives on important resolutions passed at the recent session of the Georgia Manufacturers' association, and will take up with the United States employment service, questions of improvement in the community employment service of Atlanta.

New Telephone Book Shows Big Increase In City's Population

The spring-summer issue of the Atlanta telephone directory, which was distributed Tuesday, shows a total of 53,000 listings. This means that there has been a net gain of 370 subscribers a month for the last six months. Figuring that there is an average of five persons to each telephone, an increase in population of more than 10,000 in six months is indicated.

OFFICERS LEAVE FOR M'CLELLAN

Brigadier General Joseph D. Leitch, Colonel Reynolds J. Burt, commanding officer of the eighth infantry, Fort Screven, Ala., and Major L. B. Chapman, executive officer of the eighth brigade, left Fort McPherson Tuesday morning by motor for Camp McClellan, Ala., for an inspection tour. While in Alabama, the officers will make preparations for the annual summer camp which will start May 25. Practically all of the 224 infantry of Fort McPherson will move by truck to the Alabama camp during the first week in June, leaving only enough soldiers on the reservation to keep the Fort in condition.

APPLICATIONS FOR MARRIAGE LICENSES

The following applications for marriage licenses were filed Tuesday in the office of the ordinary of Fulton county: Wilbur Lee Clifton, 25, of Albany, and Miss Mildred Leming, 24, of Atlanta; Alton Leverett, 21, and Miss Nellie Post, 21, Otis Rawls, McAfee, 21, and Miss Willie Grace Foster, 21; David Turner Hunt, 17, and Miss Sybil Strickland Longbottom, 20; Grady Mills Treadaway, 22, and Miss Frances Boyd, 18; Frank Scott, 18, and Miss Alma Chester, 19; Barnett, 21, and Miss Annie Hunt, 18; Madison Henry Hanson, Jr., 22, and Miss Katherine Albright, 21.

DECATUR CHAMBER HEADS REELECTED

Decatur, Ga., May 18.—(Special.) J. Howell Green, president of the Decatur Bank & Trust company, who has been active in the municipal hotel movement, tonight was reelected president of the local chamber of commerce. Other officers reelected were E. B. Sutton, vice president; R. C. Henderson, treasurer, and Guy Guthridge, secretary. The secretary reported the membership was around 5,500. Besides the officers, the board of directors is composed of W. G. Bryant, E. F. Tuggle, B. T. Dorris, Dr. B. F. Duke and Robert C. W. Ramspeck.

MEREDITH PLEADS FOR AGRICULTURE

lar crop the year before. Thus, he said, if too much wheat was produced one year, and not enough corn, the price-fixing commission, for the next year, would reduce the price of wheat 2 to 3 cents a bushel and increase the price of corn.

Mr. Meredith denied that this is "price-fixing," but said it would merely give the farmer the same opportunity every manufacturer and every laborer enjoyed, the opportunity to accept or reject the price offered for his product before he started on the irrevocable task of producing it.

Tribute to Pioneers.

Dr. Rondthaler drew a vivid picture of conditions in the south immediately following the war between the states, and paid highest tribute to the courage and the vision of the cotton mill men of 30 years ago, who, he said, had created an industry and trained a generation of mechanical experts from the people of the soil speaking one language and of the same race. He said that it was paradoxically true that this great industrial development in the south had not impaired the greatness of south agriculturally, and said this was the only section of the country where such a condition could exist.

He praised the cotton mill men for leading in the movement for better education and better living conditions. Closing, Dr. Rondthaler referred to women and children in industry, not, he said, critically, for he understood the situation and its problems, but said he trusted the cotton mill executives to work out the proper solution of these problems. "But, remember," he added, "that a civilization stands upon the condition of its womanhood, and that childhood received the highest possible praise, when Christ said, 'for of such (the children) are the kingdom of heaven.'"

Mr. Vereen, president of the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers, the organization for the northern mills, which corresponds to the American Cotton Manufacturers' association in the south, spoke briefly. The proposal to organize a cotton textile institute, to practically control all phases of the textile industry with the exception of price-fixing, was put before the delegates at the afternoon session by George S. Harris, of Atlanta, president of the Georgia state association. It followed several speeches and an open forum discussion which had dealt chiefly with the advisability of curtailment of production in order to offset what was described as "a buyers' market," with its low prices. The cotton textile institute, as proposed, would include establishment of the following officers:

A board of directors, to be headed by a director-general; a chief statistician; a technical expert or experts as required; a member representing the converters' association; a member representing the Wholesale Dry Goods association; a retailer representing the retail association, and a legal director.

Tuesday at the thirtieth annual convention of the American Cotton Manufacturers' association at the Biltmore hotel.

With a session beginning this morning at 10 o'clock, at which new officers will be elected and reports of committees and various officials read, the convention will close to a close. The Tuesday sessions were held morning and afternoon, with the annual banquet at night. President William J. Vereen, of Monticello, presided at all sessions and sounded the main theme of the gathering in his annual message. Governor Clifford Walker voiced the official welcome to the delegates on behalf of Georgia and Atlanta. Cason J. Callaway, of LaGrange, responded on behalf of the association.

Speakers at the morning session, in addition to President Vereen, included Dr. G. W. Dyer, of Vanderbilt university, Nashville, Tenn., who spoke on the service of industry in maintaining and protecting American ideals, and United States Senator Walter F. George, of Georgia, who dealt with the importance of agriculture in relation to industry and the necessity of a solution of vital economic problems facing farmers.

Afternoon Speakers. In the afternoon, while the session was executive in nature and resolved itself into an open forum before the close of the meeting, outstanding speeches were made by N. Baxter Jackson, vice president of the Chemical National bank, New York, who spoke on "The Textile Industry from a Banker's Viewpoint," by John E. Rousmaniere, president of the Cotton Textile Merchants' association, an organization of textile commission merchants, of New York; by Floyd W. Jefferson, of the Hunter Manufacturing and Commission company, New York, and by Lavella McCampbell, of Harding Tilton and company, and W. H. Langley and company, of New York.

Speakers at the banquet at night were Edwin T. Meredith, of Des Moines, editor of "Successful Farming" and former United States secretary of agriculture, and Dr. Edward Rondthaler, president of Salem college, Winston-Salem, N. C.

The textile industry today, President Vereen said in his address, is suffering "because it has sought to continue operations in violation of the law of supply and demand. He urged that to properly conduct business the manufacturer must know the true cost of his product and must stop all avoidable waste.

He described the policy of constant operation followed by some mills, and declared that reduction in overhead costs secured thereby was more than offset by surplus production, which reduced prices for all products below cost.

Stresses Export Business. Mr. Vereen suggested that in order to increase consumption, the industry as a whole should pay more attention to export business. He suggested creation of a cooperative export company, directed by united efforts of commission agents, and declared that mills are certain to cooperate fully in such a plan. He said that at present more than 80 per cent of the total American production is consumed in domestic trade and that it would pay to dispose of the surplus by export on almost any terms.

Problems facing textile mills of the south are different today than in many years, President Vereen pointed out. He reminded the convention that the old problems were to finance and establish mills, while today the problem is to assure profitable operation of mills already running.

Vital changes in distribution and merchandising have taken place in recent years, Mr. Vereen said, and all plans for the future must be predicated on the altered situation in this respect.

Recommends Statistics. He recommended gathering of comprehensive statistics by groups for the entire textile industry, so that every mill might know at all times production in its own line, surplus stocks on hand and unfilled orders, thus enabling it to plan its program for the future with full regard for the situation regarding supply and demand and the consequent condition of the price.

"Proper cooperation and coordination," Mr. Vereen said, "are essential today to the welfare of many branches of the textile industry. We owe it to our stockholders, to our employees and to our customers—yes, further, we owe it to our great country—to fall in line with other great industries which have successfully worked out their problems, and do our full part in making a still greater America."

Senator George, after citing statistics showing the great decrease in farms operated compared to the increase of population in this country during the past two decades, showed that about one-third of the population is engaged in agricultural pursuits. He declared that the trend from agriculture to industry began with the writing of the first protective tariff bill and pointed out that the farmer was the only man in the nation whose business was not more or less protected by the tariff wall.

Senator George showed how the farmers' product—such as the bushel of wheat, the pound of cotton or the side of bacon—had shrunk in purchasing power since 1814. Taking 30 staple agricultural crops as a basis, he declared that since 1819 American farmers have received $13,000,000,000 less for these 30 crops than they would have done could they have held their prices in line with the prices for non-agricultural commodities.

Absorbs Own Losses. The American farmer, he said, has absorbed this loss by drawing on his reserves, by additional loans and by sending his wife and children into the fields to toil through long days.

The senator pointed out that agricultural prices are drawing closer in value to non-agricultural commodity prices, and said that they should be offered and run together for a period of years, the agricultural problem would solve itself.

Senator George declared that additional credit facilities alone will not solve farmers' problems; that the farmer does not want his prices fixed by the government, and that he is opposed to a direct subsidy. The farmer must, in some way, Senator George said, "be able to impose the burden upon his own products, thereby controlling in a measure, his production."

Dr. Dyer declared that it was un-American for any man to seek more for his product, whether that product be goods or labor, than the market offered. He denounced strikes and all other forcible measures which sought to compel payment of higher wages than laws of supply and demand brought about.

"When you start to fix wages on a living basis instead of upon the individual contract basis," Dr. Dyer said, "you substitute charity for American freedom."

He compared the man who stood on his own feet, made his own contracts and demanded and received consideration, as an equal in manhood to the eagle, unprotected but vividly alive. The man who sought by force to receive the highest possible living wage for the least possible work, who was coddled and protected, was compared to the oyster, "as little alive that you can't tell the difference between a live oyster and a dead one."

Don't Miss This Convenient Opportunity to See

COLUMBUS, GA.

The South's Second Textile City—Only 4 Hours Away

The Geographical Center of Two Great Southern States, Georgia and Alabama

COLUMBUS is decidedly a point of interest that should be seen by visiting cotton manufacturers, particularly those who entertain the idea of at some time removing to the South or expanding in this direction. A complete combination of essentials of the industry has made it the South's second textile city.

Cotton goods concerns at Columbus employ more than twelve thousand people. Some of the South's largest mills are here, and all of them afford valuable examples in modernity and management. A broad program of expansion is now going on among Columbus industries.

Columbus is the South's oldest industrial city—and one of its most unique and beautiful. Its large textile, iron, wood and clay plants sell their products all over the world. Other objects of interest about Columbus include Fort Benning, the world's largest school of arms.

Columbus is only four hours out of Atlanta by rail or motor bus. Trains leave over the Central of Georgia Railroad at 7:40 a. m. and 4:45 p. m., and over the Southern Railway at 8:00 a. m. and 4:20 p. m.

If you plan a visit to Columbus telegraph the secretary of our committee and we will make hotel reservations for you and provide automobiles and guides to show you the city and its industries. No publicity will result from your visit.

And if you can't come—send us your name and address, and we will mail you an elaborate picture folder of Columbus industries and a 200-page handsomely illustrated special Columbus number of the Industrial Index, which will appear the latter part of this month.

Hydro Power

The development of the hydro-electric system has been so influenced by the exacting requirements of the textile industry that Columbus has become noted for the reliability of its power service.

During the unprecedented dry period of 1923, when factories throughout the Southeast were losing millions of dollars by enforced curtailment or complete shutdown, the Columbus Electric & Power Company delivered more kilowatt hours of power to its customers than ever before in its history, and all records for volume of production were broken by Columbus manufacturing plants.

The steady development of hydro power has been reflected by the increase in the number of cotton spindles, which has maintained the record of quadrupling every 25 years—the greatest increase being noted after each new development.

If history repeats itself the new Bartlett's Berry Dam and power plant with its ultimate capacity of 80,000 h. p., will see numerous new cotton mills and enlargements, as well as other industries.

National Awards, 1925

An interesting manifestation of the spirit of Columbus is the fact that two great national awards for public service have just come to Columbus. The Pulitzer award for 1925 goes to The Columbus Enquirer-Sun, our morning newspaper, and second place in the Forbes contest comes to the Columbus Electric & Power Company.

FOUR out of FIVE are caught.

IT'S sheer carelessness to let pyorrhea cause trouble in your mouth. Yet your dentist knows that four out of five past forty, and many younger, suffer from this serious gum disorder.

It begins with tender bleeding gums. Soon the teeth loosen in their sockets and the poison spreads through the system, causing rheumatism, neuritis, and other similar diseases.

Forhan's for the Gums is the simple, easy way to keep you out of pyorrhea's clutches. It's a pleasant dentifrice that firms the gums and gives the teeth a thorough cleansing. It contains Forhan's Pyorrhea Liquid which has been used by dentists for the last 15 years in the treatment of pyorrhea.

If used regularly and in time, Forhan's prevents or checks pyorrhea and so is an important safeguard to health. Begin today to use Forhan's night and morning as a wise precaution. All druggists, 35c and 60c in tubes.

Southern Railway Tourists Guests at Capital City Club

In an elaborate banquet which exceeded in brilliant settings any similar function in years at the Capital City club, a distinguished party of eastern financiers touring the south on a special train to inspect territory covered by the Southern railway, entertained Tuesday night at a dinner given in their honor by Lindsey Hopkins, of Atlanta, director of the Southern and prominent Atlanta business man and financier. Albert Howell, Jr., president as toastmaster and presided during the evening many of the visitors who made short talks on the business prospects of the south and the bright prospects ahead for the industrial, financial and agricultural development of this section of the union.

Heading the party of visitors was Walter S. Case, of Pomeroy and company, of New York, who is a director of the Southern railway and host of the party now touring the territory traversed by this system. The party left Washington, D. C., Sunday night and spent Monday in Greensboro, Winston-Salem and Charlotte, N. C. They arrived in Atlanta at noon Tuesday, were met by a committee headed by Lindsey Hopkins, president of the Southern railway, and the business men of Atlanta, and left for Birmingham at midnight Tuesday after enjoying Mr. Hopkins' dinner at the Capital City club. Mr. Hopkins, who is making the tour with the party, was host to the visitors during their stay in his home city.

Governor Is Introduced.
Mr. Howell opened the dinner by presenting Governor Clifford Walker and Mayor Walter A. Sims, who delivered short addresses of welcome. Governor Walker spoke briefly of the recent progress of Georgia, while Mayor Sims stressed the remarkable growth enjoyed by the city of Atlanta.

In a short talk in which he spoke of the esteem in which Mr. Hopkins is held in Atlanta among his friends and neighbors, Mr. Howell asked Mr. Hopkins to introduce Mr. Case. Mr. Hopkins spoke briefly of the pleasure he shared with Atlanta and with Georgia in having the opportunity to welcome to the heart of the south such a group of distinguished men. He then presented Mr. Case who delivered one of the principal addresses of the evening. Mr. Hopkins then presented John Harris, of Harris, Withrop and company, one of the leading financial institutions of the country with offices in many leading cities of the east. Mr. Harris responded on behalf of the visitors, speaking of the cordial welcome extended the party and of the amusement of the individuals at the growth of this part of the United States.

Among the visitors, in addition to the financiers, were high officials of the Southern railway, some of whom talked on close relationship this road always has held with the growth and advancement of the south.

Story of Atlanta Told.
Mr. Howell told of the remarkable progress of Georgia and of Atlanta, declaring that the story of the development of this section from a war-torn town of a little more than a half a century ago to the metropolis of the south was a story unparalleled in the history of the country.

The dinner was largely social in nature. The guests entertained by prominent Atlanta men, among whom were Mr. B. Wellborn, governor of the Federal Reserve bank; T. K. Glenn, Robert F. Maddox, Clark Howell, of the Constitution; J. H. Lawrence, of the Georgian; Robert S. Parker, head of the Rotary club; Walter Hopkins, Josiah T. Rose, collector of internal revenue; R. E. Pegram, vice president of the Southern railway; Ivan E. Allen, W. D. Hoffman, president of the chamber of commerce; Colonel William H. Pegg, Clark Howell, Jr., of the Constitution; J. D. Robinson and others.

Among guests at the dinner were Walter S. Case, F. S. Ryan, R. E. Pegram, Colonel Leonard P. Ayres, William M. Rutter, J. C. Grier, G. R. Chipman, Charles L. Gurney, F. R. Cooper, J. E. ment of a judge for the new district which is expected in the next few days. Members of the Georgia delegation have endorsed various prominent democrats, but it appeared that Coolidge will appoint a republican.

The bill, as it was enacted, divides the state into three districts, as follows:
The northern district includes three divisions, constituted as follows:
The Gainesville division, which includes the territory embraced on January 1, 1925, in the counties of Banks, Barrow, Dawson, Forsyth, Habersham, Hall, Jackson, Lumpkin, Rabun, Stephens, Towns, Union and White; the Atlanta division, which includes the territory embraced on such date in the counties of Campbell, Carroll, Cherokee, Clayton, Cobb, Coweta, DeKalb, Douglas, Fannin, Fayette, Fulton, Gilmer, Gwinnett, Heard, Henry, Milton, Newton, Pickens, Rockdale, Spalding and Troup; and the Rome division, which includes the territory embraced on such date in the counties of Bartow, Catosa, Chattooga, Dade, Floyd, Gordon, Haralson, Macon, Paulding, Polk, Walker and Whitfield.

Terms of Courts.
Terms of the district court for the Gainesville division shall be held at Gainesville on the fourth Mondays in April and November; for the Atlanta division at Atlanta on the second Monday in March and the first Monday in October; and for the Rome division at Rome on the third Mondays in May and November.
The middle district includes six divisions, constituted as follows:
The Athens division, which includes the territory embraced on January 1, 1925, in the counties of Clarke, Elbert, Franklin, Greene, Hart, Madison, Morgan, Oconee, Oglethorpe and Wilcox; the Macon division, which includes the territory embraced on such date in the counties of Baldwin, Bibb, Blackley, Butts, Crawford, Hancock, Houston, Jasper, Jones, Lamar, Monroe, Peach, Pike, Pulaski, Putnam, Upson, Washington and Wilkinson; the Columbus division, which includes the territory embraced on such date in the counties of Chattahoochee, Clay, Har-

SMALL TO APPROVE DRY REFERENDUM

Albany, N. Y., May 18.—(AP)—Contending that New York state's ratification of the 18th amendment did not represent the will of a majority of the people of the state, Governor Smith clearly indicated today that he would place no obstacle in the way of a proposed referendum on the prohibition question at the next general election.

The Karle-Pheips bill, calling for such a referendum, was considered by the governor at a public hearing this afternoon. Wet and dry forces turned out in comparatively large numbers, and the hearing was about to end and the governor for the first time, publicly gave expression to his views on the proposed legislation.

Governor's Position.
"Certainly we are lacking in any expression on what the people of the state think of the Volstead act or the 18th amendment," he declared during the course of a discussion with Assemblyman Edmund B. Jenks, republican, of Broome, who was spokesman for the rebuttal for the drys. Mr. Jenks, champion of the dry cause in the lower house, was the author of the referendum bill.

"Let me tell you that I think the ratification of the 18th amendment by the legislature of the state of New York was a dishonest approval," continued the governor, "because when the majority party (republican) found it could not muster the necessary votes, it resorted to the caucus and thus put the ratification through."

"There never has been any real expression of what the people of the state think of the whole question. I'd like to have it settled for once and all. Find out for once what they really do want. What harm will come from it?"

"But what benefit will come from it?" countered Mr. Jenks.

"The benefit that we will know where the people stand," replied Governor Smith.

Chase Heads Dry Forces.

Cannett William Chase, president of the New York Civic League headed the dry forces. Senator John L. Karle, republican, Queens, sponsor of the referendum, acted as spokesman for the wets. The Anti-Saloon League was not represented at the hearing, having decided to play a hands-off policy pending the governor's action.

Canon Chase asserted that signing of the measure would constitute a "dishonest act," concluded in the desire to nullify the constitution and brought to birth as an open rebellion against the constitution."

Later, when Assemblyman Jenks was speaking with reference to the amount of alcoholic content which the people would want in beer, contending that they wanted less than 4 per cent beer and wines of 7 or 8 per cent, he was interrupted by the governor, who declared:

"Oh, you're wrong about the beer. During the war, when food conservation was in effect, they had good beer with a 2.75 per cent content."

Representative Celler.

LADEN AMBULANCE IN FATAL CRASH

injured men to the hospital. A door of the motor vehicle was torn off, but the trolley was only slightly damaged.

The three linemen are in the employ of the Georgia Railway and Power company and were installing poles for the power line being built from Marietta to Austell. The poles, it was reported, are unusually heavy and are about 60 feet high.

The ambulance of John S. Dobbins, of Marietta, responded to the call and the driver was attempting to make a record run, it was said. Despite the crash, he was able to continue the journey to the hospital. Both McKelvey and Lane were placed on the operating table.

Officials of the power company announced they were investigating the cause of the accident on Concord road, at Fairbanks. However, they have been unable to fix the blame.

Lane was unmarried and is survived by two brothers. The body was removed to Dobbins' funeral home, awaiting burial arrangements.

High Lights of Convention Of Veterans in Birmingham

Birmingham, Ala., May 18.—(AP)—"So this is Birmingham!" It didn't look like the big Major John M. Crowley, New Orleans, spent the night in "way back in '61." "Right where the L. & N. station now stands I spent one whole night on my horse mired to his body," declared the gray-haired officer. He was riding 1,400 miles from Montgomery to Washington, carrying a message from President Jefferson Davis to the English ambassador. He was disguised as a negro and made it through the Yankee lines all right that time.

During subsequent expeditions as a dispatch rider he was frequently in the hands of the enemy. Finally he was captured at Alexandria, Va., and sentenced to be shot. A delegation of Alexandria women, headed by Mrs. Stanton, wife of the secretary of war, appealed to President Lincoln and his sentence was commuted. That was his last work as a messenger for the Confederacy. He remained until the end of the war a prisoner at Camp Chase, Columbus, Ohio. Major Crowley later learned that the message he carried to the English ambassador was a request to the English nobility for arms, food and clothing.

Colonel W. W. Gantt, Crystal Springs, Miss., and Colonel G. W. Buford, Oxford, Miss., enlisted at the same time in the Fourth Mississippi infantry, Mabry's brigade, and served together throughout the war. They are the only survivors of Company G in which unit they served. They have kept in close touch with each other ever since the end of the conflict between the states.

Texas holds the lead for numbers. The "Confederate Veterans" organization, founded by that state's delegation that it held the prize for attendance and "pretty girls." The Virginians and Carolinians, arriving in numbers today, disputed the latter claim.

John R. Tyree, Richmond, who works every day of his life as a landscape gardener, believes he is the oldest veteran at the reunion. He is past 95. Mr. Tyree is quite sure he is the oldest veteran in his state and believes he is one of the oldest living. Mr. Tyree is 83, hale and hearty. They were married during the war.

The New York camp, Sons of Confederate Veterans, with over 500 members, sent five delegates to the reunion. They arrived today, headed by Hartwell B. Grubbs, camp commander. Mr. Grubbs is a native of Alabama. The other New York delegates are S. W. Fry, commander of the eastern division; H. L. Clink, scales, adjutant in chief of the eastern division; John Farnsworth, past commander of the New York camp, and Charles J. Seales. The New Yorkers selected Alabama women and girls as their sponsors, matrons and maids of honor and chaperones. Miss Sarah Pheland, of Birmingham, assistant sponsor; Mrs. George Burke Johnson, of Uniontown, and Mrs. Tomlinson Cabell, of Birmingham, matrons of honor; Mrs. Arthur A. Adams and Mrs. Kirkland Jackson of Birmingham, chaperones.

Prill as a flower, unassuming and soft spoken, yet as staunch in her loyalty as the greatest warrior, is Miss Jessica Randolph Smith, Washington, D. C., official color-bearer of the Confederate Veterans. She is the daughter of the late Major Oren Randolph Smith, who designed the Stars and Bars for the Confederacy. In her silk-brocaded gown of rare texture, with the choicest of real lace gracefully adorning its simple lines and bearing the flag her father designed, Miss Smith presented a picture of the days of the sixties.

FORMER ATLANTAN KILLED IN CRASH

Conyers, Ga., May 18.—(Special).

Joe Carter, 35, of Conyers, was killed and Wilson C. Whitaker, 40, Rockdale county policeman, was seriously hurt early tonight when the automobile in which they were riding overturned after a tire exploded, two miles northwest of this place.

Carter died instantly, having received a fractured skull and broken neck, while the policeman suffered a broken shoulder and other injuries.

No one was on the highway at the time, but the crash was heard by Carl Grenade, farmer, living near the scene.

Grenade gave the alarm and Whitaker was rushed to the home of relatives. It is probable he will be taken to an Atlanta hospital for treatment. Both were en route to Atlanta.

TWO VETERANS DIE ON FIRST DAY.

Birmingham, Ala., May 18.—(AP)—The deaths of two Confederate veterans were recorded on the first day of the annual reunion here. They were Robert Scott, 86, Nacogdoches, Texas, and Thomas A. Trawick, 82, Abbeville, Ala.

A. B. Hayes, another veteran, was badly injured when he missed his step in alighting from a train. His nose was broken and he received several facial lacerations. He was removed to St. Vincent's hospital where he was receiving medical attention.

Hospitals of the city are open for free service to all veterans, while medical service is at the command of the old soldiers for the asking.

SALE OF ARMY POSTS IS ASKED IN HOUSE

Washington, May 18.—(AP)—A bill to authorize sale of 13 army reservations was introduced today by Representative James, of Michigan, ranking republican on the house military commission. The sale would be under terms of an act giving the war department authority to dispose of tracts no longer needed for military purposes. The reservations named in the bill included Manassas military reservation, Florida; Augusta arsenal, Augusta, and Fort McPherson, target range, Waco, Ga.; Washington post, Norfolk and Fort Hunt, Va.; Fort Monrue rifle range, South Carolina, and Fort Washington, Maryland.

NO ACTION TAKEN AGAINST MEEKINS

Washington, May 18.—(AP)—A house judiciary subcommittee, which has asked for impeachment of one federal judge and is considering petitions for removal of two other federal officials from office, today recommended that no action be taken on the petition of Daniel F. Hickey for impeachment of Federal Judge Isaac M. Meekins, of the eastern district of North Carolina.

The brief report of the judiciary committee said no impeachable offense was included in the allegations by Hickey, a former employee of the internal revenue bureau, whose charges centered about Meekins' conduct while counsel for Thomas W. Miller, when the latter was alien property custodian. Miller is now under indictment in New York on charge of maladministration of that office.

Contending that actions prior to tenure of office are not sufficiently binding to be used in "establishing a course of conduct before assuming duties of the judgeship," the subcommittee urged that the affidavits signed by Hickey be tabled.

Hickey asked for the jurist's removal under the formal blanket accusation of "high crimes and misdemeanors in office," charging him specifically with acting as "tax fixed" through "influence with high government officials" in filing of tax returns and in aiding in reversing a decision in favor of a chemical company in which Meekins held a voting interest at that time. Judge Meekins has denied having had such a financial interest in the company prior to his resignation as counsel for the alien property custodian.

Chairman Graham, of the judiciary committee said today that the committee will consider the report this week, probably tomorrow.

CLUE IS FOUND OF WHEREABOUTS OF MISSING HEIR

El Dorado, Ark., May 18.—(AP)—Following the receipt and verification of a letter from Spokane, Wash., purported to be from Robert F. Bradley, missing heir to a big oil estate in the Smackover field, a telegram was sent to that city through his attorneys asking that a search be made for the boy.

Bradley's letter did not intimate that he knew anything about the discovery of oil on his once worthless land.
The Bradley boy, now 19, has been missing for six years, ever since he ran away from his guardian. Numerous efforts have been made to locate him since the land to which he is heir became valuable but without avail.

A Daily Total Expense Bill of $340,000 for Operating Costs

That's what it cost the Louisville & Nashville Railroad during the year 1925 to deliver the high type of freight and passenger service which has earned for this system the name of "The Old Reliable." Every day, this Railroad paid to its employees, citizens of the South, who contribute to the prosperity of the community in which they live, the sum of $186,000.00 in wages. Each day, this Railroad paid to the mine owners of the South the sum of $21,000.00 for fuel. Every twenty-four hours during 1925, the Louisville & Nashville Railroad paid $62,000.00 for materials and supplies. Every day during 1925, it paid in city, state, local and federal taxes, the sum of $20,000.00—while $31,000.00 per day was required for interest on its bonded indebtedness and $20,000.00 per day for rents, casualties and miscellaneous items. Figured down to the minute, it costs the Louisville & Nashville Railroad $78.00 in operating expenses every time your watch ticks.

Do you realize and appreciate what an important factor the American railroad is, in promoting the prosperity of each and every citizen?

During the past five years, a daily average of $47,700 has been expended for permanent improvements, in order to enlarge the capacity of the L. & N. property.

Facts about Atlanta

Atlanta is the "Gateway to the South" for the postal service of the Nation. Finance, accounting, supply for 1,025 district postoffices clear through Atlanta. Headquarters for the railway mail service for four states, for the inspection service for three states, the central repair station for the South—the postal service ties the South to Atlanta.

* * * * *

Southern and Southeastern headquarters are maintained in Atlanta by over 560 national businesses—more than the combined total of any two or three Southern cities.

* * * * *

Strictly wholesale houses in Atlanta number 379. Of these 32 deal in groceries, 22 in fruit and produce, 18 in meat and meat products, 20 in dry goods, 9 in hardware. Every possible kind of merchandise is represented in the other 278.

* * * * *

Commercial warehouses in Atlanta, exclusive of those used for cotton storage, contain 425,000 square feet of floor space, used by over 1,000 firms to keep "spot" stock for the benefit of merchants all over Atlanta's distributing territory.

* * * * *

Cold storage for a million and a half cubic feet of perishable food is available in Atlanta.

* * * * *

Practically every manufacturer of passenger automobiles, every truck maker, every motor accessory maker, every tire manufacturer and every gasoline and oil company has its southern sales headquarters in Atlanta.

Write to JONES & COMPANY ATLANTA

"We're out of . . ." says the clerk to the proprietor. "Write to Jones & Co., Atlanta, they keep it in stock," is the instant response of merchants in the two thousand towns and tens of thousands of villages throughout the Southeast.

These merchants depend on Atlanta. Stocks of goods, for them, must be small. Atlanta jobbers, Atlanta wholesalers, Atlanta branch houses, Atlanta manufacturers provide them with reserve stock, quickly available. They know that the unusual item, when needed, will come to them on time from Atlanta, because Atlanta has proven itself the logical distributing point for the Southeast.

This is the reason that every day over 400 package cars leave Atlanta on fast freight trains to give "spot" service to these merchants.

Eight railway systems give Atlanta direct railway connection with these merchants. Salesmen from Atlanta call on them. These merchants are familiar with Atlanta. They visit here frequently, not merely because Atlanta is attractive to visitors, but to buy goods, to gather ideas for their stores, for conventions.

Atlanta's reputation for convenient, economical distribution, based originally on its strategic railway location, and enlarged by the intelligent use which has been made of these natural advantages by more than a thousand Atlanta and national businesses, is a magnet which week by week draws new firms to Atlanta to serve these merchants, to increase our prosperity.

Wycoff Hits Homer In Tenth To Beat Georgia, 4-3

Both Teams Stage A Desperate Battle To Win Last Game

Doug Ends Brilliant College Career by Playing Great Game—Hits Long Double in Eighth To Tie Score—Snead Pitches Great Ball.

BY ROY E. WHITE.

Douglas Wycoff, the greatest of them all, Tuesday picked the last half of the tenth inning of the Georgia series—a game on which, incidentally, hung the 1926 southern conference championship—waited until two of his mates had died and the score was tied and then, on his final appearance as a Georgia Tech athlete, slashed out a terrific home run into the left field stands that decided the game and gave Tech the coveted title.

The final count was 4 to 3, and Wycoff's bludgeon accounted not only for the winning margin in the tenth, but for the tying run in the eighth, when his scorching double sent Captain Bobby Reeves scrambling across the plate.

In honoring their greatest athletic star, one who for four years has been the idol of his mates on the athletic field, in the classroom and as a sterling southern gentleman—students of Georgia Tech hoisted Wycoff on their shoulders immediately after he crossed the home plate and took him to the dressing room, where he was forced to call for help to prevent his hands from being shaken into shreds.

Tech's biggest night shift parade started when Wycoff crossed the plate, and ended in the wee small hours of this morning. Horns, bells, whistles, and every available means of celebrating the victory was used by the Tech student body last night, and just was their cause for all of the hilarity.

It was a great victory to win and a heart rending struggle to lose Tech, with its back to the wall and a conference championship as its laurel wreath of victory, fought as it never fought before. Georgia, under the careful guidance of one of the best coaches in southern college baseball circles, Bill White, fought a great battle and led the Jackets into the eighth inning, only to lose in the tenth.

Kain, Snead in Duel.
John Snead and Shaky Kain engaged in a real pitchers' duel Tuesday afternoon. Both were at their best and each had a change of pace that baffled a bunch of hitters during the major part of the game.

Georgia was first to break the scoreless deadlock. The Bulldogs scored a pair of tallies in the fifth inning. Tully grounded out. Johnson singled to center, but was out trying to steal second base. Kain was safe at first when Brewer dropped the ball. Middlebrooks hit a hot one between third and second that Crowley stopped, but failed to recover in time to throw out either runner, and Kain stopped on second. Satlof then singled to center field, scoring Kain and sending Middlebrooks to third base from where he scored when Wycoff threw wild to first base trying to get both runners home. Snead pitched a gem, but was out trying to steal second base. Kain was safe at first when Brewer dropped the ball. DOUG ENDS NOBLE CAREER—CURTAIN DRAWN ON STORY OF TECH'S GREATEST IN MOST NOBLE MANNER

Doug Wycoff Tuesday afternoon ended a noble career in a noble manner. He hit a home run, thereby breaking up a ball game with the Georgia Bulldogs, and giving his team the conference championship.

It was the way that a man of Wycoff's ability would pass from the field of intercollegiate athletics. Doug's career for four years at Georgia Tech has been a story of success of achievement on the gridiron, in basketball court, and track.

Out of the thousands of students who have attended Georgia Tech and played on the various athletic teams, Douglas Wycoff is the first to win four varsity letters in major sports, and is considered a star in every branch of sport.

Wycoff is president of the senior class, vice president of the Tech chapter of Sigma Nu, a member of the Bulldogs, Kappa, Anaks, Skull and Key, Omicron, and president of the Georgia Tech Athletic association. In addition to his numerous school activities, Wycoff ranks above the average student in his scholastic standing, and takes his part in the social activities of the younger set.

In the graduation of Wycoff, Tech loses its most valued student and athlete, and W. A. Alexander, head coach of athletics at the North Avenue institution, said recently at the annual football banquet that Doug is the greatest athlete that ever trod on Grant Field.

MERCER LOSES FINAL BATTLE TO AUBURNITES
BY EMMETT SIZEMORE
Auburn, Ala., May 18.—(Special.) The Auburn Tigers had three big innings here this afternoon and brought the season of 1926 to a close by triumphing over the Mercer Bears, 11 to 2. The curtain went down on one of the most successful seasons ever enjoyed by a Tiger diamond combination, with the Junglers capturing their twenty-second contest out of 29 starts.

"Dawg" Sheridan, pitching his last game in an Orange and Blue uniform, had the Bruin aggregation well in hand throughout. The big boy in turning in his tenth victory of the season, allowed the Bears but seven scattered bingles, and was never in danger.

JOE COOPER FIGHTS DRAW WITH HORNING

St. Petersburg, Fla., May 18.—(AP) "Farmer Boy" Joe Cooper, Terre Haute, Ind., who will meet Mickey Walker in a welterweight championship bout at Indianapolis on July 4, fought ten furious rounds to a draw with Judge Horning, Savannah, Ga., in the main event of the American Legion ring card here tonight.

Horning fought a cool, defensive battle but was unable to hurt the Hoosier, who roared continually, landing several staggering rights to the head. Cooper weighed 144, Horning 148.

Two Famous Colts May Meet in Race

East St. Louis, May 18.—(AP) Bubbling Over, winner of the Kentucky derby, and Carlisle, winner of the Cofroth handicap, are virtually certain to meet in the all four sports and June almost unanimously elected captain of the all-conference football eleven. He was mentioned for all-conference football honors last fall by experts all over the country.

During the past two years on the baseball field the hitting record of Wycoff was well above the 300 mark and last year he led the team with a mark of 460.

Not only did he play baseball and football to perfection, but in 1923 Wycoff was third high scorer in the conference basketball tournament, despite the fact that the Jackets only played in three of the games.

His home run Tuesday was a fitting climax to a great athletic career, and the name of Douglas Wycoff will forever be remembered in Georgia Tech, and will go down in the archives as the greatest of them all.

Wycoff has declined numerous offers to enter major league baseball and professional football, and has unofficially announced that he will enter upon a business career upon completing his course in June. His father and brother are in the construction business in Arkansas, and it has been reported that a branch office will be located here with Doug in charge.

Hard-Hitting Barons Again Trim Crackers; Count 10-7 This Time

Bagby and McLaughlin Batted Hard, While Lyle Holds Atlanta—Win Is Third Straight For Dobbs' Forces Over Crackers.

BY HOWARD PILL.

Birmingham, Ala., May 18.—Two rousing base-blow volleys in the second and fourth frames, coupled with some extremely capable relief hurling by "Lanky" Lyle, gave the Barons their third straight triumph over the Atlanta Crackers at Rickwood Tuesday afternoon. The Dobbers were twice forced to come from behind, but first Yam Yarman and then Sammy West stepped into the breach with solid home-run smacks to avenge the home tale. The count was 10 to 7.

General Crowder went to the hill at the start in quest of his eighth consecutive triumph, but was outclassed by walkitis in the second, and Dobbs substituted Arnold Stone, who retired for a pinch-batter in the fourth. Crowder, who is topping the Dixie hurlers, will in all probability be sent back to the slab Wednesday in the series finale, and is expected to draw Cliff Markle, the Crackers' sweep-ball artist, as his opponent.

Thursday's contest was a flailing battle for four frames, with the Dobbers warring the heavier hickory. Jim Bagby was bumped for five tallies in the second and failed to come up for the third. Hollis McLaughlin, succeeding him on the rubber, McLaughlin was nicked for five bingles and four runs in the fourth, but flung steady ball thereafter. Limber Lyle completely shut off the Atlanta steam after he mounted the hill in the fifth, and pitched to but 12 batters in the next four frames. He slowed up a bit in the ninth, when the Crackers got their only bingles off his shoats—three of them, which produced one counter.

Seven of the 13 Baronal clouts were luscious extra-base smacks. Babe Gansel collected three of the overtime bangers, bagging a brace of doubles and a far-flying triple. Johnny Roser collected a two and a three-baser, while Yarman and West hit one each for four. Grant Gillis was the hero of the sparkling defense presented by the Barons, handling ten chances in 10-karat fashion. He was almost that good with the knocking stick, rattling off three laundered singles out of four trips to the pavilion. Grant

The Crackers jumped away to a three-run lead in the second, crowding Stone and Lyle for one each. Mule Haas tripled was the only extra-baser registered by the invaders out of their eight base blows. A low throw to third in the seventh, which allowed Roser to score, was the only entry of the day in the Atlanta bobbie column.

The Crackers rallied gamely in the ninth, Niehaus garnering the first bingle off Lyle to start the stanzas, a double to left, Carvett batted for McLaughlin, but rolled out to Chapman. Murphy delivered a safety ever first, however, to tally Niehaus. He went to second without opposition a moment later, and after Niehoff hoisted to West, went to third on Good's single that handuffed Chapman. Lyle passed Haas and choked the runaway. Then the stocky Red Smith looped what appeared to be a clean Texas leaguer over the left field chalk, but Gillis stepped on the gas and gathered in the blow after a swift dash across the green, bringing hostilities to a close.

American Golfers Feted by Parliamentary Sportsmen

Banquet Alleviates Sting of Defeat At Woking Tuesday

British Golfers Take Six Matches to Three for Americans, With One Match Halved—Steadily Improving Form of Jones Satisfies Boosters.

By H. C. HAMILTON.
Sports Editor, The Constitution.

London, May 18.—A dinner in the house of commons Tuesday night as guests of the parliamentary golfers partly compensated the American Walker cup team for its decidedly disappointing showing at Woking.

After a splendid day at Rye, where the Americans showed distinct improvement in spirit and stroke, while they defeated the Oxford and Cambridge golfers on Monday, the Walker cup team took on the players of the St. Louis club in ten foursome matches and were soundly beaten, 2-12 to 3-12.

Though the score in the Woking matches shows a decisive victory for the English players, it must be taken into account that the United States team were engaged in a type of match seldom played in the United States. Real foursomes, in which the two players of each team play alternately with the same ball, are not often played in America and had the effect of taking the flashy quality out of many shots. Matches usually called foursomes in America are really four-ball matches.

When one player is executing a shot with the knowledge that he is to leave the ball for his partner to play on the next shot, he will naturally play a more conservative game.

Example of Handicap.
An example of the handicap experienced by American golfers today was evident in the play of Jones on the home ward journey in the morning. Sweeter was wild from the tee and left Bobby in the lead on a nearly every shot, necessitating whirl-

Others Improve.
Francis Quimet, Jesse Guilford and George von Elm also are showing marked improvement.

But it is useless to try to talk of Bobby Jones or George von Elm to the Britishers who have seen the American team play. All the natives are picking Watts Gunn because of his ingenious, studious, cautious playing and his deadly iron shots, which electrify the watchers.

Bob Gardner has expressed himself as greatly encouraged by the improved form shown by his charges, especially since the Rye competition in which the Americans defied the high winds and played excellent golf.

The Walker cup team leaves for Miffield Wednesday night, to prepare for the British amateur championship which starts May 24. They plan to get in considerable practice on the tournament links before that date.

Of the Americans, the veteran Fowkes is the only one under the weather. The Pittsburgher is suffering from a mild attack of influenza, which is keeping him in bed.

Results of Matches.
The result of the morning play was: Robert Harris, British amateur champion, and Major C. O. Hazled defeated Bobby Jones and Jesse Sweetser, 4 up and 3 to play.

T. A. Torrance and J. B. Beck defeated Francis Quimet and Jesse Guilford, 2 up.

E. N. Layton and H. D. Giles defeated Robert Gardner and Watts Gunn, 3 and 1.

W. A. Powell and W. A. Murray defeated George von Elm and Roland Mackenzie, 4 and 3.

F. G. L. Fairlie and G. D. Roberts defeated James D. Standish and C. G. Waldo, 5 and 4.

The Americans came off better in the afternoon play, winning three matches and halving one. Guilford and Quimet defeated Layton and Gillies, 4 up and 3 to play. Von Elm and Sweetser defeated Harris and Mackenzie, 2 and 1. Hazled and Gardner, 2 and 1. Jones and Gunn halved with Beck and Powell. Standish and Waldo defeated Torrance and Fairlie, 7 and 6.

Golden and Deeknell composed the doubles team of Tech High. They displayed some brilliant form in the match with the Marist Cadets, giving their shots with dead accuracy. Corrigan and Clarke carried the colors for Marist.

Plan Additions.
Huntsville, Ala., May 18.—(Special.) The Erwin Manufacturing company, which operates a plant for the manufacture of heavy knitted underwear for men, has begun the construction of a large addition. More machinery will be added to the equipment.

RED SOX THROUPE BROWER

Boston, May 18.—Hitting Charlie Robertson heavily in the first few innings, the Red Sox hammered out a 6-3 victory over St. Louis here today. Bunker was sure of his control except in the eighth inning, when a triple by Williams and a home run by Jacobson gave the Browns three runs. The fielding of Gerber, who was back at short for the Browns, and of Herrera, was sensational.

Stecher and Londos Clash Tonight for Title

Huge Crowd Expected To Witness Fracas; Both Grapplers Fit

Stage Is Set For Championship Bout—Dempsey Unable To Referee—Tickets Are Selling Fast—Box Office Open Tonight.

BY KENNETH SAPP.

Just like a Dempsey-Tunney battle would be to boxing, a Jones-Hagen match to golf, a Tilden-Richards match to tennis, or a Tech-Georgia game to football, is exactly what the Stecher-Londos match, to be held at the auditorium tonight, is to wrestling.

For it's the champion of the world defending the coveted title against the foremost challenger, Joe Stecher, of Dodge, Neb., one of the greatest grapplers of all time, probably second only to the great Frank Gotch, will risk his championship and all the shekels that go with it when he meets Jimmy Londos, the best of the many famous wrestlers produced by old Greece, and what we mean, it is some risk.

Both are well known to Atlanta's new host of wrestling fans, both by sight and reputation, and a vast majority of that host will be inside the auditorium when the pair take to the mat tonight. The fracas will mark the title holder's second showing in Atlanta, both under the promotion of John Contos. He recently tossed Stanislaus Zyzanski, the giant Pole, here, and thereby won plenty of supporters, as Atlanta had come to believe the "Old Man" well high invincible.

But Londos certainly will not be without his supporters. Every Greek this side of the Atlantic that can get here will be on deck, and that will be plenty. Londos, in his several matches here, has shown all the potentialities of a champion, and, with his cohorts, thinks tonight is his big opportunity.

Both in Shape. Fresh from a siege of training at Jack Dempsey's Hendersonville camp, Jimmy is in wonderful shape. Beautifully proportioned, despite his great muscular development, he always is in condition, but he never looked as neat and trim as when he breezed back into Atlanta Tuesday night.

Stecher also looked fit Tuesday, and after a round of golf Tuesday morning and a brief workout on the mat during the afternoon, he was declared ready by his brother, Tony, who handles the managerial reins.

The pair have met twice before, and each time has Stecher emerged triumphant, but on each occasion he has been pushed a little harder, and in their last meeting in St. Louis, the champ wormed his way off the mat no less than 18 times to evade Londos' punishing holds.

The Greek's training period has been devoted largely to perfecting a defense against Joe's terrible scissors hold. He has taken every means of toughening his stomach muscles, and thinks he has figured out a way to nullify the terrific pressure of the Stecher legs.

"The best defense against the scissors is not to let Joe get the hold," he said. "However, if he does get the scissors clamped on, there is only one thing to do, and that is to lie as quiet as possible. The scissors works like a vise, and the more one twists and turns, the higher the hold gets. I have toughened my abdominal muscles to such an extent that I think I can endure any kind of pressure, but I'm not going to take any chances. I'm just going to get my hold before Joe gets his."

Londos Dangerous.

A flying headlock that has defeated some of the greatest wrestlers in the business is the chief weapon Londos will carry into the ring, and with it he hopes to drive the massive shoulders of Stecher to the mat and hold them there for the allotted three seconds. This must be done twice for Londos to capture the title, in the event Stecher himself scores one fall; if only one is recorded and that is to the credit of the Greek, then he takes over the championship from the American.

The referee will not be Jack Dempsey as promoter Contos had hoped, a wire received from the boxing champion at Hendersonville Tuesday night saying that he could not get a temporary release from the contract that he signed to work out there for thirty days without a break, on which condition he is to receive $30,000.

While this was quite a blow to the promoter, he was unshakable Tuesday night in his belief that the crowd would be of monstrous size and that a sell-out was altogether likely.

"Such a bout as this is not seen very often, anywhere in the country, and at the popular prices charged I fail to see why any Atlanta sport lover should stay away," Contos stated.

Good Preliminaries.

Mat followers express belief that Londos' superior speed, ability and greater youth will make him a more formidable opponent for Stecher than was the elder Zyzanski, and as the latter gave Stecher quite a battle, they point out that Londos has better than an outside chance to hoist the crown from the head of the great Nebraskan and unburden the $17,000 belt from his waist.

If the main event of two hours two falls is not sufficient to give the fans a run for their hard-earned money, then Contos will offer two exciting preliminaries that he feels sure will measure up to expectations.

In the one-hour semi-final he will pit Dick Daviscourt of California, against Nick Velocoff, of Russia. Both are heavyweights.

The one-hour opener brings to grips P. A. Oates, of Fort Valley, Ga., and the Masked Marvel, now unnamed, who will wrestle without his disguise for the first time in Atlanta. Those matches are scheduled for only one hour each in order that the world's champion and his challenger can begin their struggle at a reasonably early hour.

All of those who have not purchased their seats are urged to do so today at Chess Place, Piedmont Hatters or 57 North Forsyth street. After 5 o'clock they can be bought at the auditorium.

Stecher has been guaranteed a flat $10,000 for the match. At lower left is the $17,000 diamond-studded belt which goes with the championship.

Paolino Is New European Champ

Barcelona, May 18.—Paolino, the Basque woodchopper, has established his claim to the heavyweight championship of Europe by defeating Erminio Spalla, of Italy, on points in a twelve-round fight here.

Forty thousand spectators crowded the Palaza monumental and cheered throughout the bout for work, use of his elbows at close quarters and for persistent clinching.

Paolino, who shortly will display his wares in the United States under the management of Francois Descamp, scored with vicious uppercuts and hooks to the Italian's body, while Spalla, when he fought fairly, drew blood with straight left jabs to the Basque's head.

CHAMP SILENT ON O'ROURKE BID FOR BOUT

Charlotte, N. C., May 18.—(AP)—Jack Dempsey is paying little attention to the "million dollar offer" of Tom O'Rourke for a bout with Harry Wills, pending Tex Rickard's selection of an opponent, the champion's secretary, Frank Jones, told the Associated Press today over long distance telephone.

The champion could not be reached by telephone until later in the day, but Jones said that until Rickard had named an opponent "as specified in his contract" Dempsey would be unable to definitely consider the O'Rourke offer.

Should Tunney be named, however, by Rickard, it was pointed out that the O'Rourke offer might be negotiated.

Eastern League President Dies

Holyoke, Mass., May 18.—(AP)—Dan O'Neill, president of the Eastern baseball league, and a member of the national board of arbitration, died today.

For years O'Neill was a picturesque figure in baseball, politics and light harness racing. He had been seriously ill a week. He is credited with being the cause of more baseball rules than any other figure in the game. He was successively player, captain, manager, owner, and finally president of the league he founded. Once, in a desperate fight to win a pennant, he forced his club to play four games in one day—resulting in another rule.

He came with his parents from Ireland in the sixties.

NOYES NAMED TO LEAD TECH WATER TEAM

At a banquet given in honor of the Georgia Tech swimming team by Tom Glenn Tuesday, Bill Noyes was unanimously elected captain of the 1928 swimming team, with Wadley Glenn, serving his first year as a member of the varsity, as alternate captain. Noyes has been a leading figure in college swimming throughout the south and one of the mainstays of the Tech team.

Glenn, like Noyes, has made a good name for himself on the team. During his freshman year and this season he has been a consistent point winner with his remarkable performances.

After the election, Captain Noyes, on behalf of the members of the team, presented the retiring captain, Spec Hollingsworth and Manager Boland Glover with a handsome silver belt set in recognition of their splendid work during the past season.

These present included Tom Glenn, host; Miss Louise Hart, Miss Virginia Branch, Miss Virginia Sevier, Miss Edna Bell Raine, Miss Isoline Breitenbacher, Miss Margaret McNeil, Miss Nanette Griffith, Miss Mary Shropshire, Miss Frances Parks, Miss Virginia Ashe, Miss Evelyn Payne, Miss Edna Payne, Miss Verdora Rosenbusch, Miss Frances Barnett and Miss Helen Carroll.

Captain Spec Hollingsworth, Manager Boland Glover, Captain-Elect Wadley Glenn, Manager-Elect Peter Bruce, Nene Gumbly, Wilbur Glenn Devitt Cole, John Staton, Watson Race, Coach W. A. Alexander, Bill Simpkins, Dick McKinstry, Arthur Schomahl, Jr., Warren Oliver, Miss Young, Herbert Knapp, Red Holleman, John Young, Tom McCutcheon, Art Merrill, Buster Harris and Weenie Wilson.

Joe Brown Wins Jr. Hi Track Meet

With Slade piling up point after point for his school, the Joe Brown Junior High school won the track meet held between the William A. Bass, Hoke Smith and O'Keefe schools Tuesday afternoon with a total of 34 points, while Bass ran a close second with 33 points.

Slade took the individual high point honors for the afternoon of events with a total of 28. He was not pushed by any other athlete in the meet.

Another track meet will be held next Friday afternoon at the O'Keefe school, with all of the junior high schools taking part.

Geo. Brovold Goes On Retired List

Mobile, Ala., May 18.—(AP)—George Brovold, an infidel, sent to Mobile by the Boston Braves this spring, was placed on the voluntary retired list today, according to President R. M. Weinacker, of the local club. Brovold was with the Minneapolis team of the American association and San Antonio of the Texas league last year.

Major Leagues Upset With Only One-Fifth Of 1926 Season Gone

Teams Picked to Stand in First Division Are Clinging to Lower Berths in Standings—McGraw Giving Club Real Shakeup.

BY FRANK GETTY.

New York, May 18.—The major league pennant races are one-fifth run.

In many ways, the results of the first 30 games of the 1926 season have been illuminating.

Cincinnati, picked by the United Press to finish second in the National league, already looms as a real "Red" menace in that circuit. Jack Hendricks has his team in first place, five games better off than they were at this time last year.

The Pirates, clinging to the lower rung of the first division, are in relatively the same position they occupied on May 18, 1925. But the Giants, who were far out in front on this date last year are trailing in the second division, with Manager John McGraw firing, selling, trading and farming his players right and left in an effort to shake the club out of its lethargy.

Brooklyn, the semblance of a big league ball club, has been kept up near the top by excellent pitching from unexpected sources. If Jess Petty, McGraw and McWeeny continue to deliver and "Dazzy" Vance recovers from his boils and strikes his 1925 stride, nothing can keep the Robins out of the first division.

But the real threat to another pennant for Pittsburgh comes from Cincinnati. Hendricks has the strongest pitching staff in the National league with Luque, Rixey, Donohue, Mays, May, Lucas and Nehf.

He has real first basemen in Robine and Pinelli. The outfield, with Eddie Roush and Curt Walker as its mainstays, is good enough, and only behind the bat—where pennants so often are won—is Hendricks' club shakiness.

In the American league, Connie Mack's Athletics, after a disappointing start, are well on their way to the top. They are among five teams which have averages of well over .500. While things are in the experimental stage as far as many American league clubs are concerned, the first 30 games indicated that the Athletics have only one really dangerous rival—the New York Yankees. The other clubs, while they are bunched up in front now, do not seem to have the stuff to last until the end of September.

If terrific but sporadic hitting alone can carry a club to a pennant, the Yankees might win out, but the Athletics still look like the best bet.

Two cities—St. Louis and Boston—are badly upset over the showings of their teams thus far. The Browns, starting off with such a tooting of horns for George Sisler and his men, are off in the cellar with the discreditable average of .238. The Cardinals, picked by many to give the Pirates their hardest battle, are in the

Camp Again Leads Southern Hitters

Memphis, Tenn., May 18.—(AP)—It still takes better than 400 with the timber to stay among the top four of the Southern league hitters. Camp of Nashville, who came back to the top today from third place yesterday, is hitting .412, with Taylor, Memphis, close on his heels with .411, giving the select quartet a run for their money. Partridge, of Nashville, and McLarry, also of the Volunteers, are tied for fifth place with .396. Camp crawled out on top of the heap today with one safe connection in two trips to the plate.

Sandlotters Clash Today in Big Tilt

An elimination game to decide the championship of the north side division of the Sandlot league will be played at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon at Piedmont by the Little Crackers and the Briarcliff Tigers. Both teams are strong contenders for the division title, and a good game is expected.

Cliff W. Cunningham, president of the Federation of Trade, and Pew Chestnut, former member of the Tech High baseball team, will act as umpires.

second division and likely to stay there.

St. Louis fans, never generous to a loser, are abandoning the ball parks of the Mound city and denouncing Sisler and Hornsby.

The Boston Braves occupy the cellar in the National league, with an average of .276. The Red Sox are little better off in seventh place, and the result is that there is a great famine in admission fees around the Hub.

The Law of the Talon

By Louis Tracy

Res. U.S. Patent Office

SYNOPSIS.
Jim Parks, Hudson Bay company's agent at Moose Lake, is greatly disturbed by a news item in an English paper announcing the coming marriage of Alastair Spencer Pantan to Eileen Grant and referring to the prospective groom as the heir presumptive to Lord Olan. The nobleman's only son, John Bridgforth Pantan, had disappeared some years before and his death is about to be presumed by law. Parks decides to leave Moose Lake and go back to England.
Arrived at Edmonton, Parks tells Mr. Leslie, the temporary head of the Hudson Bay company, that he is John Bridgforth Pantan.
Leslie, Leslie's daughter, is a sympathetic listener to the tale and she encourages her father to help young Pantan.
In the meantime Eileen Grant is married in London to Alastair Pantan. Immediately after the ceremony she learns that John Pantan is alive and is on his way to England to claim an inheritance left him by his aunt.
Lord Olan, John Pantan's father, tells Eileen that his son had been dismissed from the army for cowardice under fire and drunkenness and that he is unable to forgive him.

INSTALLMENT IX. BLANK DESPAIR.

On the lawn in front of the house John Pantan and Spot were going through a distinctly amusing performance. The man called it "jerk," and the dog seemed to enjoy it, because he carried out a series of gymnastic exercises with the utmost gravity and skill. The girl watched them, herself unseen, for many minutes. At last, when Spot tried valiantly to twist like his master in that supposedly beneficial contortion known to all ranks of the British army as "swayin' from the 'ips, with the awms 'eld a-kimbo, the legs strite, an' the feet well awpawt," she laughed so loudly that the two heard. Instantly Pantan said, "Shunt! Dismiss!" and Spot indulged in a vigorous scratch.
"O, please, don't stop!" cried Miss Leslie. "What a darling dog! And how clever he is! Just imagine his trying to do a difficult thing like that. It's hard enough for us, but for him!"
"You've had a shot at 'jerk,' then?" said Pantan.
"Yes; only in a school for young ladies it's called callisthenics. The swank name doesn't make it any easier. Can you get that one where you run in a circle leaning on one hand?"
"Yes. Can you?"
"I should smile. Bet you I can get round quicker than you."
"No bet. I have to cover a much larger circumference. But let's try."

The girl won easily, though she fell over at the second effort when she saw Spot grimly holding down a fore paw as a pivot and hopping on his hind legs.

"O, this is killing," she gurgled. "If you two are ever hard up for a meal, give a show in the nearest park and you'll rope in dollars and cents."

A gong sounded from the entrance hall.
"Gee whizz!" she shrieked, striking off at a lively pace. "That's breakfast, and I've forgotten dad's toast."

The meal was a pleasant one, and the talk dealt exclusively with the coming season's prospects in the fur trade, though the great company's business has become much more general of recent years owing to the springing up of new communities in territory once sacred to the hunter and the trapper.

Spot having graciously consented to remain with his hostess, Leslie took Pantan to headquarters, and within half an hour the latter had not only proved that he was veritably the James B. Parke of Moose Lake, but discovered, to his great surprise, that he had a sum of two thousand five hundred dollars to his credit, being the unpaid balance of five years' accumulated salary.

This sum he regarded as ample for his needs during the next few months. Acting on Mr. Leslie's advice, he left for Ottawa that afternoon. There were many difficulties to be overcome, especially in regard to a passport, but Leslie believed they could be arranged if tackled in the right way. Pantan took with him letters of introduction to people in the Canadian capital and in London. Among the latter was one addressed to "David Leslie, Esq., Braside, The Common, Wimbledon," and he was particularly enjoined to take no further step in regard to his inheritance until he had consulted with this gentleman.

"Uncle David is a dear, and an awfully clever old boy," confided Miss Leslie, who herself drove Pantan and Spot to the station. "Don't you do a thing without his say-so. Dad pretends that the judges ask him to dinner when they're really tied up over some point of law. He may even help you about Spot, though everybody says your bowwow will be sent straight to prison for six months."

"Hear that, Spot?" said Pantan, turning to look at a contented dog enthroned again on the back seat.

Spot yawned loudly.

Spot and his master had a miserable journey across the prairie provinces of the great dominion. The dog's troubles began at once; he had to travel in the confined quarters set apart for his kind, and Pantan could only see to his food and water supply and give him a little exercise at long intervals. But the man was fated to undergo the greater tribulation. In a newspaper bought at Winnipeg he found a brief account of the marriage!

It was, of course, the mere accident of the association between the heirship to a Scottish baronetage and a wholly insignificant employee of the Hudson Bay company that caused the Canadian press to publish details of the ceremony at St. Margaret's, Westminster, which otherwise would have passed unnoticed. The Winnipeg Journal reproduced the Inverloch photograph, so Pantan had the wretched experience of seeing once more the recent picture of Eileen and Alastair and his father, together with his own more ancient presentment. At first he yielded to blank despair. He remained in the train simply because he could do nothing else, the next stop being several hours ahead.

The Pullman car attendant noticed him and consulted the conductor. The latter, a kind-hearted fellow, came and inquired if he could be of any assistance.

Pantan was seated with bent head and shoulders humped, his hands clasped and arms resting on his knees. He was staring blankly into the void, yet a soul in pain looked out from his deep-set eyes. He gave no heed till the official touched his shoulder and repeated the question.
"I'm not ill, if that is what you mean," he said, dully, then.
"Well, pardon me, son, if I'm buttin' in, went on the other, taking the opposite seat in the section, which happened to be unoccupied. "I only want to help, an' you do seem as though somethin' had shook you up good an' hard. What about a tonic? I have a bottle of Canadian Club handy."

"That will not minister to a mind diseased," Pantan was hardly conscious of the words he uttered, but the conductor thought them curiously apt.

"That's just where it might touch the spot," he urged. "You come along o' me. It'll do you no harm to rouse yourself an' talk, anyhow."

"If I drank any hard liquor now I might go mad," said Pantan slowly. "But you may be right about the tonic. You're older than I and have probably seen much more of life, real life, that is. Tell me this, then. Suppose you had started for England to marry the girl you loved and who loved you once upon a time—a girl who certainly had not forgotten you—and you discovered from a paragraph in a newspaper that she had been cheated and hoodwinked into marrying a man whom you believed to be the author of nearly every mischance which had befallen you, what would you do?"

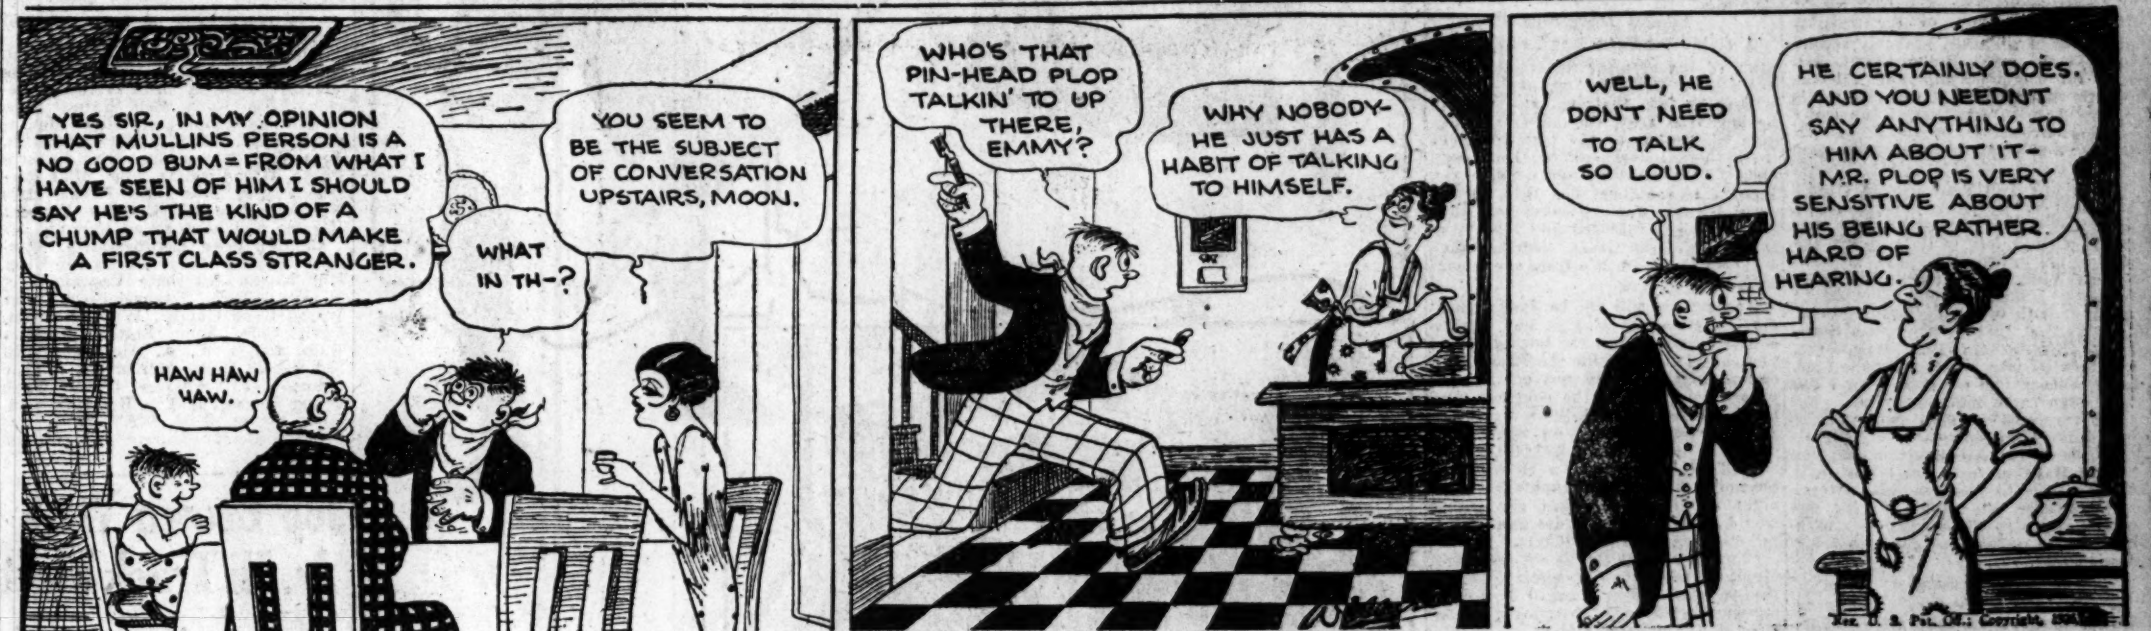

The conductor weighed the point.
"I guess I've got to think about thirty years so as to get that proposition from the right angle," he said. "Well, if that had happened to me then I'd go straight an' see the girl, an' if she was agreeable I'd kick the other guy round the block an' take her from him, an' not all the acts of parliament in the law library at Ottawa would stop me. That's how I'd ha' felt then. But now, my brown hair havin' turned kind o' whitish, I'd advise any young friend of mine in them circumstances to stop right here in Canada an' keep his eye peeled for another girl. It'd save a heap of trouble."

"I'll chew on that for a while," said Pantan, raising the ghost of a smile. "Anyhow, I'm much obliged to you. It has done me good to hear your voice and my own."

Musicales, Dances and Teas Mark Wednesday's Calendar

The musically inclined public will rally to the Atlanta Music club presentation of Rosita Renaud, the famous Chilean pianist, who stars at 11:30 final morning musicale at the Woman's club auditorium at 11 o'clock, who rightly deserves her place as one of the leaders in Georgia's field of musical education, making her program selections from such famous composers as Beethoven, Chopin and Liszt. The annual luncheon follows the concert in the banquet hall.

Viewing for honors with this cultural event are visitors and bride-elect, who are to be honored at bridge parties and luncheons, while the delegates and their wives attending the American Cotton Manufacturers' convention will be entertained at a buffet supper Wednesday evening at the Atlanta Biltmore.

Miss Evelyn Knox and Miss Josephine Davis, two charming bride-elect of June, will be central figures at bridge-teas, and Mrs. Frank Walsh will be hostess at a bridge-luncheon at her home in Ansley Park, complimenting her guests, Misses Louise Phinizy, of Athens, and Jane Altamus, of Hartford, Conn.

The regular midweek dinner-dance at the Atlanta Biltmore will assemble a large contingent of the college set of society, and the dance given by the Junior Chamber of Commerce at the Druid Hills Golf club will have as special honor guests the past presidents of the senior chamber of commerce and their wives, including Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Newell, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Ashcraft, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Maddox, Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Foote, Mr. and Mrs. B. S. Boykin, Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Allen. J. H. Woody is in charge of the dance.

Miss Camp Wins U. D. C. Medal.

Miss Mildred Camp, member of the freshman class of Washington Seminary, has been awarded the United Daughters of the Confederacy gold medal for the best essay on a given subject. Miss Camp is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Camp, 115 Palisades road. The contest was between the freshman and sophomore classes, and Miss Camp is the first freshman to win the honor in the past five years.

The subject assigned each year by the United Daughters of the Confederacy is a fixed one, relating to some phase of the confederacy. All members of the sophomore and freshman classes submitted essays. Miss Camp is the granddaughter of Joel Chandler Harris, author of "Uncle Remus" stories.

Mrs. Lueking Honors Columbus Visitor.

Mrs. H. S. Lueking entertained at tea Tuesday at her home at Fort McPherson in compliment to Mrs. C. H. Caffery, of Columbus, Ga., the guest of Mrs. Harry J. Keeley.

Tea was served by Mrs. Keeley and Mrs. Harrison. Assisting Mrs. Lueking in entertaining her guests were Mrs. James Magee, Mrs. Alexander Bolling, Mrs. E. W. Leard and Miss Kitty Hagood. A small group of close friends were invited to meet the honor guest.

Camp Supper To Inaugurate Activities at Parry-dise

A congenial party of Wednesday's Scott college, where she was director of physical education. Later she held the same position for a year at the Atlanta Normal Training school.

For the ensuing season at Camp Parry-dise Mrs. Parry has selected and secured the services of a staff of assistants and counselors, every member of which is an acknowledged leader in her particular field. Miss Louise Cramer, a graduate of Smith college and a certified Red Cross life saving examiner and a member of the Junior League, will be in charge of the swimming activities at camp. Miss Mary Olive Whitehead, locally famous for her classes in applied art and interior decoration which she teaches according to the Smith-Hughes methods, will supervise the handicraft at Parry-dise. Miss Rhea Jernigan, a leader among the young people in the schools and churches in Atlanta and Decatur, will instruct in nature study. Dramatics will be personally conducted by Miss Mamie Jones, of Emerson college, and by Miss Sarah Carter, assistant of Agnes Scott college. Other counselors will be Miss Lina Parry, graduate of Agnes Scott, and Miss Sarah Whitehead, of Carson-Newman.

A large number of mothers and fathers, as well as the girls themselves, will be interested in the announcement of the opening of registration lists for Camp Paradise on Monday morning by Mrs. Harvey Parry, owner and director of the camp. Mrs. Parry is well known in the city by reason of her extensive activities in connection with girls' work, particularly in connection with the Girl Scout organization here of which she is the local executive director. Miss Mildred Camp Wins U. D. C. Medal

Miss Mildred Harris Camp won the gold medal offered by the United Daughters of the Confederacy for the best essay on "The History of the Confederate Flag."

She is the talented and attractive daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Camp, of 115 Palisades road, a granddaughter of Mrs. Joel Chandler Harris, and the late Mr. Harris, who wrote the famous Uncle Remus stories. The contest was held between the sophomore and freshman classes of Washington seminary and Miss Camp is the first freshman to compete for and win the medal in the past five years, as it has heretofore been awarded to a sophomore for the past four years.

Miss Harris inherits her literary ability from a family of writers on her maternal and paternal side of the family. Her father, Mr. Camp, is a leading journalist and is on the editorial staff of The Atlanta Journal. She is a niece of Julian Harris, owner and editor of The Columbus Enquirer-Sun, and a granddaughter of which was recently awarded the Pulitzer prize.

Mrs. Turman Will Talk on "Citizenship"

Mrs. R. L. Turman, president of the Atlanta League of Women Voters, will talk on "Citizenship" to the Hapeville Woman's club, at its regular meeting, Thursday afternoon, which will be held at the home of Mrs. D. B. Evans, on Atlanta avenue, Hapeville. The club will hold its meetings at the Hapeville auditorium during the summer months, but on account of improvements which are being made on that building, Mrs. Evans, who so graciously opened her home to the club all of last winter, has offered its hospitality for this meeting. It is expected that the auditorium will be in readiness for the following meeting. In addition to Mrs. Turman's address, there will be a musical program and refreshments will be served. The new officers will fill their respective positions.

East Lake P. T. A. Holds Final Meet.

The final meeting of the East Lake P. T. A. before the fall term was held Friday evening at 8 o'clock at its schoolhouse. A great many daddies as well as mothers were present to enjoy one of the most delightful programs of the year. Mrs. Leroy Rogers, retiring president, called for reports from all chairmen and each report was indicative of not only a pleasant but a financially successful year for the P. T. A. Mrs. Rogers thanked all members for their loyal support and cooperation, paying tribute to Mrs. Willis Davis.

Robert Crenshaw, chairman of East Lake, delivered an address praising the work of the organization and offering as spokesman for the town the help and backing of the community. The ceremony of installing the new officers was another feature of the program. They are, president, Mrs. P. D. Yates; first vice president, Mrs. Robert Crenshaw; second vice president, Mrs. P. D. Lombard; auditor, Mrs. Morton Campbell. At the close of a speech praising Mrs. Leroy Rogers, retiring president, called for reports from all chairmen and each report was indicative of not only a pleasant but a financially successful year for the P. T. A. Mrs. Rogers thanked all members for their loyal support and cooperation, paying tribute to Mrs. Willis Davis.

Miss Marion Wheeler Is Honor Guest

Mrs. Henry I. Reid was hostess Friday evening at a miscellaneous shower in honor of her sister, Miss Marion Wheeler, a June bride-elect. Pink roses and sweetpeas decorated the rooms where the guests assembled. Conversations were enjoyed after which the bride-elect was led into the dining room by little Everette Reid, the lovely son of the hostess, where the table was most beautifully decorated in white. A mammoth white wedding bell was suspended from the chandelier, and a miniature bride was the central decoration. Danced high around this was a most beautiful display of gifts.

FELT SLUGGISH, TIRED AND DROWSY ALL DAY

"I used to have a tight feeling in my chest after meals, a feeling that made me want to take just a good, long breath," says Mr. Ely Crow, of Statham, Ga. "I began taking Thedford's Black-Draught for this and didn't have it any more," he adds.

"I used to get sluggish, and feel just as tired when I would get up in the morning as when I went to bed. I would get drowsy all during the day, and would have no energy, no appetite. I would take two or three large doses of Black-Draught and in a few days I'd be so hungry I could eat anything, and when I would get up mornings I'd feel 'full of pep,' ready for work."

"This made me a great believer in Black-Draught. I recommended it to others for the good it has done me, and for the money it has saved me. People tell me that I must think Black-Draught will relieve everything, but of course I do not go that far in my belief. I know, though, that in my case I have found it just as recommended."

There is nothing very unusual about Mr. Crow's statement, and yet many people fail to heed these common warnings of constipation until they get real sick. Thousands of men and women take Thedford's Black-Draught at the first sign of constipation, and soon feel fine, ready for work, play and pleasure.

Black-Draught is a natural remedy for the ills due to constipation and indigestion, since only leaves and roots of medicinal plants are used as ingredients. When you take Black-Draught, the digestive organs are helped in a healthful, natural way, and normal elimination is restored without the sickening effects that characterize the use of powerful mineral drugs.

Get a 25c package of Black-Draught today. Sold by druggists everywhere. JA-32

HIGHER THAN
WOOLWORTH BUILDING
Year's Sales of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable CompoundMRS. ED. DAUGHERTY
1208 ORCHARD AVENUE, MUSCATINE, IOWA

The Woolworth Building in New York City, which towers 792 feet above the street, is the highest building in the United States.

If all the bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound sold in 1925 could be placed end to end, they would make a column as high as the Woolworth Building with enough left over to extend from Lynn, Massachusetts to Cleveland, Ohio. In many little villages as in many thriving cities along the route, who are glad to tell others about Lydia

E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. In a recent letter, Mrs. Daugherty says: "I was ill for four months before I took your medicine. I found one of your books at my front door and read it. It seemed to fit my case, so I began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and after I took the third bottle, I found relief. I am on my eleventh bottle and I don't have that trouble any more, and feel like a different woman. I recommend the Vegetable Compound to every one I see who has trouble like mine. I am willing to answer any letters from women asking about the Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. Ed. Daugherty, 1208 Orchard Avenue, Muscatine, Iowa.

Mrs. Carr Also Helped. Muscatine, Indiana—"I could not get around to do my work. I took treatments and they did me no good. I had always heard of Lydia E. Pinkham's medicine and I thought it would be like all the others, but I found out after I took half a bottle, as I have proved it wonderful. I am taking it yet and I can do all my work. I am feeling fine now, and it is your good medicines that have done it. I tell every woman of the good I get from taking the Vegetable Compound and from using the Sanative Wash."—Mrs. E. W. Carr, 721 West Powers St., Muscatine, Indiana.

GEORGIA HOTEL MEN HOLD MEETING IN JUNE

Columbus, Ga., May 15.—(P)—The annual summer meeting of the Georgia Hotel association will be held in Columbus June 3 and 4. It was announced today by Jack Walton, chairman of the arrangements committee for the convention. This is an organization of the executives of the representative hotels of Georgia and will bring to Columbus the state's leading hotel managers and owners.

Jack, Marilyn Plan To Take Marital Rest

Hollywood, Cal., May 15.—(P)—Jack Pickford, motion picture actor and brother of Mary, and his wife, Marilyn Miller, the actress, believe they will be happier if they live apart, so they are going to try it.

There will be no divorce and no legal separation, Mr. Pickford said. "We mutually agreed to separate," the screen actor said. "I saw Marilyn in New York recently and had dinner with her. We came to an agreement to live separately. There are no hard feelings and there will be no divorce or legal separation, as far as I know."

Pickford arrived here from New York Saturday and Sunday gave a house-warming for motion picture friends.

Miss Miller also has been quoted as saying there would be no divorce or legal separation. To Pickford the new arrangement will mean flinging himself into preparations for filming a new picture, he said. For Miss Miller it will mean fitting a songful way across a stage whose comedy will be a contract to her marital venture.

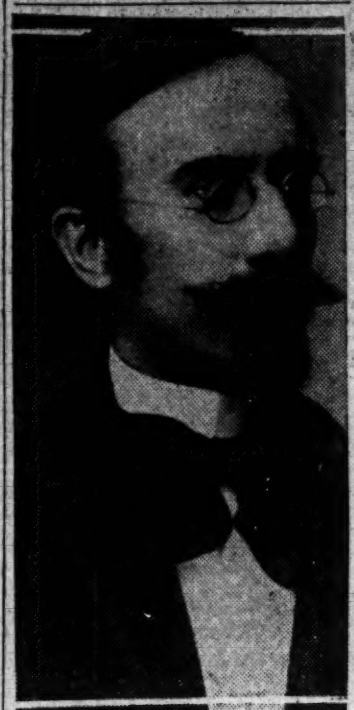

Persistent rumors of difficulties in the Pickford-Miller family began months ago when Miss Miller left Hollywood to return to the musical comedy stage which she deserted on marrying the film star.

New Waycross Edifice.

Waycross, Ga., May 15.—(P)—The First Baptist church of Waycross has adopted a resolution which requires all the deeds to the church property to be placed in the hands of the church corporation. This is preparatory to letting the contract for a new $75,000 building.

MUSICIAN, FORMERLY OF ATLANTA, HONORED

An item in the Los Angeles Times brought to Atlanta Tuesday information that Professor Kurt Mueller, formerly of Atlanta and for the past two years instructor in the Anaheim Conservatory of Music in Los Angeles, has been honored with election to the Order of Parsifal.

PROFESSOR KURT MUELLER.

This order is awarded only once in each three years in recognition of exceptional artistic ability by the society whose headquarters are at Bayreuth, known throughout the world as the home of Siegfried and Cosima Wagner, widow of Richard Wagner and a daughter of Liszt.

Professor Mueller, whose ability as a musician is well known in Atlanta, has achieved distinction in musical circles of Los Angeles, both as an instructor and as a concert pianist.

FUNERAL HERE TODAY FOR R. M. SAUNDERS

Funeral services for Richard M. Saunders, 22, son of Mrs. Florence Saunders, matron of the dormitory of the Georgia Baptist hospital, who was drowned Friday near Alexander, City, Ala., will be held this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from the chapel of Awtry and Lovins company. Rev. E. P. Carson will officiate and interment will be in Hollywood cemetery.

According to news received in Atlanta, young Saunders, in company with several companions who were wading in a river near Alexander City, stepped into a hole over his head and was drowned before his mates could reach his side. All efforts to resuscitate him failed.

In addition to his mother, Mrs. Saunders is survived by five sisters, Mrs. R. P. Lyon, Mrs. A. L. Williams, of Trenton, N. J.; Mrs. J. M. Harrison, of St. Petersburg, Fla.; and Misses Dorothy and Helen Saunders, of Atlanta; one brother, Fred Saunders, two aunts, Mrs. Aline Strickland and Mrs. J. O. Davies, of New York, and two uncles, J. B. Smith, of Atlanta; and J. H. Smith, of Virginia.

BAD WEATHER AGAIN HALTS WILKINS FLIGHT

BY FRED L. EARP.
(Copyright, 1934, by The Constitution and North American Newspaper Alliance.)

Fairbanks, Alaska, May 15.—Bad weather again prevented Captain George H. Wilkins from hopping off yesterday in the monoplane Detroit into the arctic unknown in search of new lands for the United States.

The commander of the Detroit Arctic expedition has been weather bound now for more than a week on this rim of the polar ice pack. He probably could have flown through the mist, but since the sighting of new land is the main objective of his expedition, he could not afford to have less than good visibility.

Captain Wilkins, his navigator, Thomas G. Lahuey, and his pilot, Charles M. Wiley, will fly in the Detroit northwest from Barrow when they hop off. The vast unexplored area northwest of Point Barrow is almost twice as large as the unexplored portion to the northeast. To the northwest lies an area of 500,000 square miles or about twice the area of the state of Texas. The unknown area to the northeast is about 300,000 square miles or a little more than the size of Texas. Captain Wilkins' course will take him far west of the path made recently by the Norge.

Robert Wasker, radio operator of the expedition at Barrow is piercing the static wall of northern Alaska regularly, but only during the few hours just before or just after midnight here, which means six hours later than New York time, few people in the United States realize that Point Barrow and Fairbanks are more than 1,000 miles west of Seattle. The United States, therefore, is always two or six hours ahead of us in time.

Thomas Jefferson, the Third President.

by J. CARROLL MANSFIELD

IN THE PRESIDENTIAL ELECTION OF 1800, THOMAS JEFFERSON AND AARON BURR RECEIVED THE SAME NUMBER OF VOTES.

THIS TIE THREW THE ELECTION INTO THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES, WHERE, AFTER BALLOTING FOR A WEEK, JEFFERSON WAS CHOSEN PRESIDENT AND BURR VICE-PRESIDENT.

THOMAS JEFFERSON, PRESIDENT 1801-1809.

THE ELECTION OF JEFFERSON MARKED THE COMING INTO POWER OF THE DEMOCRATIC-REPUBLICANS AND THE PASSING OF THE FEDERALISTS, WHO HAD NEVER BEEN GUIDED BY THIS GENERAL PUBLIC BUT HAD DONE SPLENDID WORK.

© 1925, BY THE MCLURE NEWSPAPER SYNDICATE.

JEFFERSON, THOUGH A VIRGINIA ARISTOCRAT, BELIEVED THAT EVERY MAN, AND NOT JUST TAXPAYERS AND LANDOWNERS, SHOULD HAVE THE RIGHT TO VOTE.

HE BELIEVED THE GOVERNMENT WAS RESPONSIBLE TO THE PEOPLE FOR ITS ACTS AND THAT THE PUBLIC SHOULD BE KEPT INFORMED.

JEFFERSON'S INAUGURATION TOOK PLACE IN WASHINGTON ON MARCH 4, 1801. HE DISKED ALL POMP AND CEREMONY AND, WITH DEMOCRATIC SIMPLICITY, RODE UNATTENDED TO THE CAPITOL.

HIS INAUGURAL SPEECH EXPRESSED HIS CONFIDENCE IN THE PLAIN PEOPLE OF AMERICA.

IN A REMARKABLE ADDRESS HE PLEDGED THE NATION A POLICY OF PEACE, ECONOMY, CO-OPERATION AND GOOD WILL.

TO CARRY OUT HIS PLAN OF GOVERNMENT THRIFT, JEFFERSON CHOSE ALBERT GALLATIN FOR SECRETARY OF THE TREASURY.

GALLATIN WAS NOT AS BRILLIANT A FINANCIER AS ALEXANDER HAMILTON, BUT HE WAS SHREWD AND, BY CUTTING DOWN THE EXPENSES OF THE ARMY AND NAVY, SOON MADE A LARGE SURPLUS IN THE TREASURY. THIS PLEASED THE PEOPLE.

BANKERS DISCUSS BOOSTER PROGRAM

Columbus, Ga., May 18.—(P)—Preliminary matters in the nature of annual reports and other details were cleared out of the way today by the annual 35th meeting of the Georgia Bankers' association, leaving Wednesday for action on several matters of importance.

C. E. Martin, president of the association, W. J. Vereen, president of the Moultrie Banking company, Lee Hudson, cashier of the American Bank of Commerce, and Dr. Harry R. McKee, executive director of Greater Georgia, Inc., made the principal addresses. In his address Mr. Martin referred to organization of this Georgia as the outstanding work of the association for the year.

Wednesday the bankers' association is expected to take some definite action in regard to Greater Georgia, Inc., which it organized. The organization now has a legal status, and has presented a definite program to the association.

Delegates were entertained today at noon with a barbecue at the country club and a military demonstration at Fort Benning during the afternoon. Tonight they are guests of the Columbus Clearing House association at a buffet dinner, dance and reception at the country club.

The convention will close Wednesday at noon.

Dr. McKee Speaks.

In an address before the convention, Dr. Harry R. McKee declared that the purpose of his organization is to coordinate all branches of industry, agriculture, commerce, civics within the state, "so that each may prosper and expand in harmony with the other for social, economic and civic development of Georgia."

It was the first personal statement Dr. McKee has made with regard to the definite general outline of the program for the organization.

"A Greater Georgia," he said, "has been a dream in the minds of thousands of progressive, forward-looking men and women. Slowly but surely through the years this dream has been becoming a reality. That dream now has possibilities of realization. To further it, an organization is being completed, machinery is being installed, a program has been worked out, and capable leaders have been enlisted. Only fuel in the form of volunteer workers and money are needed to set this mighty potential movement into action. The machinery is your organization, Greater Georgia, Inc., the organized citizenship of this great state in action at its own tasks all over the state."

PRESIDENT MARTIN DELIVERS ADDRESS.

Columbus, Ga., May 18.—(Special.) Pointing to the completion of the organization of Greater Georgia, Inc., which was launched a year ago, as the outstanding accomplishment of the Georgia Bankers' association during the closing fiscal year, Charles E. Martin, vice president of the Citizens' Bank of Fort Valley and president of the bankers' association, in his annual address today, declared it is now incumbent upon every interest and organization in the state to support the organization unflinchingly.

"Though sponsored by the Georgia Bankers' association," said Mr. Martin, "Greater Georgia is now presented to our state, much larger in its scope and potential possibilities than any other organization for the economical development of the resources and advantages of Georgia." Support of the organization by every interest in the state will bring Georgia to a place where it shall truly merit in every sense the name of the Empire State of the South, he declared.

Financial conditions, nationally and state-wide, were discussed by Mr. Martin, and he urged bankers to uphold the 18th amendment, pointing to the large increase in savings accounts which he attributed as a direct result of prohibition.

1,500 Colored Pupils Will Sing in Opera On Auditorium Stage

Colored citizens of Atlanta are looking forward to "The Marriage of Figaro," an opera in three acts which will be presented by the students of Booker T. Washington High school Thursday evening at the auditorium.

For this occasion, Kemper Harrell and assistants, with others gifted in dramatic art, have been working early and late putting finishing touches on the leaders and the chorus. Another rehearsal is to be held today when the play will receive its final O. K. Fifteen hundred students are being trained during spare time to sing before the audience.

The management reports that from the present demand for tickets it looks as though the auditorium will hold a capacity house on Thursday evening. General admission tickets are 35 cents and may be bought at Yates and Milton's Pharmacy, Carter & Arnold's Pharmacy, Pilgrim Life & Health Insurance company, and Parks' Cafe, 336 McDowell street.

Agnes Scott Senior Class Will Receive Diplomas on Tuesday

Decatur, Ga., May 18.—(Special.) Seventy-nine seniors of Agnes Scott college will receive diplomas at class day exercises Tuesday evening.

The commencement program follows:

Thursday afternoon 3 o'clock, annual alumnae meeting; Friday morning at 11:30 o'clock, annual meeting of trustees; Saturday morning at 11:30 o'clock, trustees' luncheon to alumnae and seniors; 8:30 o'clock presentation of Black Friars of "Twineds," by Booth Tarlington; Sunday, 11 o'clock, baccalaureate sermon by the Rev. Dunbar Ogden; Monday afternoon, 12:30 o'clock, luncheon for reunion classes, class day exercises and concert by the glee club, and Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock, conferring of degrees.

UNION CITY TO LET SIDEWALK AWARDS

Union City, Ga., May 18.—(Special.)—Registered voters having approved a bond issue to provide funds for paying about two miles of sidewalks and additions to the local public school, Municipal bonds are making plans to let contracts.

Other progressive movements are under way here including a proposed plan to erect a municipal auditorium to be used by civic organizations.

EVANGELIST SPEAKS ON FAITH IN LIFE

Replying to recent newspaper articles declaring that the world is growing better, the Rev. George E. Moody, evangelist, conducting the interdenominational revival at Central Baptist church, declared Tuesday night that within the past few years crime has steadily increased in all forms and unless the course is turned the country soon will be in a bad way.

"Faith," he said, "is God's blank check. Faith is the beginning of something of which you can't see the end. It is reaching out to take hold of something which seems invisible as if it were really tangible. Faith is to life what the headlight is to the automobile, something looking into the future."

The evangelist will preach at a special service at 12:30 o'clock today at the Southern railroad shops. Special music will be given by Adair Louie, in charge of music during the evangelistic campaign. Prayer meeting will be held at 10 o'clock this morning at the church.

FUNERAL SERVICES FOR AGED VETERAN

Funeral services for William J. Smith, 84, retired Columbia county farmer, of 140 Euclid avenue, who died Sunday afternoon after a week's illness, were held Tuesday afternoon at Grovetown, Ga. Interment was in the family cemetery there.

Mr. Smith, a native of Columbia county, came to Atlanta more than three years ago. He was a Confederate veteran and is survived by two daughters, Mrs. S. N. Chapman and Mrs. J. E. Scott, of New York, and two grandchildren, Huntington Chapman and Miss Rennie Newsome, of Washington, D. C.

PATTERSON SLATED AS TEXTILE HEAD

Next president of the American Cotton Manufacturers association will be Samuel Finley Patterson, who is slated to be named to the highest office in the organization at the session this morning of the 30th annual convention now in progress at the Biltmore hotel.

Mr. Patterson, president of the Rosemary Manufacturing company, of SAMUEL FINLEY PATTERSON.

Rosemary, N. C., treasurer and general manager of the Roanoke Rapids Mills company, of Roanoke Rapids, N. C., and one of the most prominent textile men in the Tarheel state. He is an influential member of the North Carolina Cotton Manufacturers association, having served as president for the past year. He also has been vice president of the American Cotton Manufacturers association for the past year.

Mr. Patterson is a member of the extension commission of the North Carolina Agricultural and Mechanical college and is a leader in the movement, for agricultural education extension in that state.

ALUMNI OF TECH IN ANNUAL MEET

In accordance with a precedent established last year, the National Georgia Tech Alumni association held its annual meeting yesterday at noon at the Biltmore hotel.

Several speakers, including Dr. M. L. Brittain, of Tech, and George McCarty, president of the association, made short talks before the gathering, which was adjourned at 1 o'clock.

Following adjournment, members of the association visited the Tech campus, reassembling again at Spiller's field, where they witnessed Tech's victory over the University of Georgia baseball team.

It was decided last year at a meeting of the association that the members would gather each year on the date of the final baseball game between Georgia Tech and Georgia.

TENNESSEE G. O. P. IN HARMONIOUS MEET IN NASHVILLE

Nashville, Tenn., May 18.—(P)—Tennessee republicans today in a harmonious three-hour convention, adopted a platform, endorsed the record of J. Will Taylor, heard several spellbinders and adjourned with no recommendations as to candidates for any of the state offices coming before the voters in November. Save for the resolution endorsing the second district congressional race, and endorsing by one or two of the speakers to the anti-Taylor leaders, the bitterness of the past few months' factional fight failed to show in the deliberations.

Former Governor Alf Taylor in the role of temporary chairman, sounded the keynote of harmony, and Hal H. Clements, chairman of the state executive committee, who called the convention to order, likewise counseled pulling together in the hope of a state victory at the election.

Dr. Senter To Speak.

Dr. Samuel T. Senter, pastor of the First Methodist church, will make a special talk tonight, his subject being "Power in a Church." He extends a cordial welcome to all who wish to attend.

Osborne Wood Plans To Work In California

(By Leased Wire to The Constitution and The Chicago Tribune.)

New York, May 18.—Osborne C. Wood, son of Major General Leonard Wood, governor-general of the Philippine Islands, returned from Havana today on the Siboney.

Mr. Wood, president of the Light & Power Co.; Mrs. Steinhardt, and their daughter-in-law, Mrs. L. Steinhardt.

Wood, who three years ago won a fortune in Wall street, then lost his winnings in Europe and was reported to have recouped in the real estate business in Florida, said he hadn't been in Florida since January. He had been spending his time roaming around Cuba, looking up friends of his boyhood days.

He said he would spend two of three days in New York at the Hotel Biltmore and then go to California. He said he intended to connect up with some "well-established firm," but in what line of business he hadn't decided.

Asked if he intended to enter Wall street again, he said: "To play Wall street one must have money. To get money one must first work. Maybe I'll go back there and maybe I won't. One never can tell," was his verdict as to whether he would try the motion-picture business.

Steinhart said he had offered Wood a position in his business.

STUDENTS AT MONROE GET DIPLOMAS SOON

Monroe, Ga., May 18.—(Special.) Commencement exercises at the Fifth district A. & M. school will begin Saturday night when the alumni hold their annual banquet.

Sunday morning the Rev. W. T. Irvine will preach the commencement sermon. Monday the students will present a minstrel show; Tuesday, an opera, and Wednesday 60 seniors will receive diplomas. Dr. Andrew M. Soule will deliver the baccalaureate address. The school's enrollment for this term has averaged 277 students.

An important discovery of potash has been made in New Mexico.

Travels 25 Years—Gas Makes Him Nervous

For 25 years A. Thomson traveled and all this time he was nervous and restless because his food formed gas and fermented. He tried many things without success but the mixture of buckhorn bark, glycerine, etc. (known as Adlerika) helped him at once.

Many people keep the OUTSIDE body clean but let their INSIDE body stay full of gas and poisons. Give the inside a REAL cleansing with the mixture of buckhorn bark, glycerine, etc., as sold under the name of Adlerika. This acts on BOTH upper and lower bowels, eliminates metabolic poisons and removes old matter which you never thought was in your system, and which caused sour stomach, nervousness, sleeplessness, headache, etc.

Whenever you eat too much heavy food, let Adlerika REMOVE the undigested surplus and leave you feeling fine. ONE spoonful relieves GAS and takes away that full, bloated feeling. Even if your bowels move every day, Adlerika brings out much additional matter which might cause trouble. Don't let Adlerika give your stomach and bowels QUICK relief.

What Doctors Say.

Dr. G. Eggers reports Adlerika is the best medicine he has used in 37 years.

Dr. W. H. Bernhart writes he could not get along in his practice without Adlerika.

Dr. J. J. Weaver, a doctor for fifty years, says he knows no medicine better than Adlerika.

Dr. L. Langlois prescribes Adlerika regularly with GOOD effect.

J. E. Pickett writes: "After using Adlerika I feel better than for 20 years. WFUL impurities were eliminated from my system."

Adlerika is a big surprise to people who have used only ordinary bowel and stomach medicines because of its REAL and quick action. Jacobs' Pharmacy and other leading druggists.—(adv.)

'Not Interested,' Say Coolidges Of Spiritualism

BY THOMAS L. STOKES.

Washington, May 18.—President Coolidge and several senators were mentioned as being interested in spiritualism and the science of reading the future during a hearing before a house committee on a bill to regulate fortune-tellers and mediums in Washington.

An investigator for Harry Houdini, the magician, told the committee of experiences with local mediums and clairvoyants one of whom described table-tipping seances at the white house and visits from senators desiring to know about the future. Houdini, who is advocating the bill for regulation, nearly engaged in a fist-fight with an excited onlooker who objected to the magician's demonstration of how spiritualists convey messages from the dead through tin horns. The two were separated by spectators and Houdini threatened to call the police.

This happened after the committee had adjourned, when Houdini and the mystics began a private session of their own.

While no authorized statement was made at the white house regarding the alleged "seances," it was said informally that neither the president nor Mrs. Coolidge is interested in spiritualism.

A quiet-mannered, soft-voiced young woman, Rose Mackenberg, testified under oath about visits she had made Monday to ten local practitioners as an investigator for Houdini, consulting among others Madam Marcia, whom

Mrs. Harding visited, and Mrs. Jane B. Coster, who said that table-tipping seances are held at the white house in the presence of President Coolidge and his family. Miss Mackenberg quoted Mrs. Coster as saying: "The investigator said that Mrs. Coster had told her that several senators are believers in spiritualism and frequently came to see them. The two women, with permission of the committee, stood at the side of Miss Mackenberg as she testified about her consultation with them and entered vigorous denials frequently. Others in the audience interjected, heatedly, during the session, with such outbursts as 'lie' and with the same energy applauded questions from members of the committee indicating doubt about the wisdom of legislation."

After the session, Mrs. Coster denied emphatically that she had said seances were held at the white house, explaining that she had told Miss Mackenberg that they were held "in the shadow of the white house."

A New York skyscraper now being built will be 300 feet high and will contain a church, a hospital, a bank and a hotel.
